Introduction and Dedication

To know is the object and the purpose of all who read. This book is written for all persons who want to better their conditions and surroundings. It fully explains how all the people of the United States can all be prosperous in every line of business, and all laborers fully employed and well paid. It provides for the immediate inauguration of the greatest era of prosperity ever enjoyed by any Nation or people ever upon the earth; which will last for the coming century. Every locality in the entire Nation is to be improved and all improvements are to be for the benefit of the whole people of the Nation.

Suggestions to all readers of this book who desire to be one of the persons who is to be more prosperous than he has ever dreamed of enjoying before this time.

Read every article twice over through the entire book before you have decided what you are going to do in this new era of prosperity to make it for your personal benefit. The author is now fully satisfied that every one who reads these articles will want to be a participant in his or her portion of these benefits that will be for every person who is willing to be benefitted. There is not a human being upon the earth who will object to receiving anything that will aid him in understanding how he may surround himself with better environments, better home and a more prosperous business. This is the intent, purpose and the earnest desire that has prompted the publishing of this book.

There are some entirely new features in the plan, but nothing new in the science or the practicability of all that is required to make the plan operative. It is positively and distinctly a carefully prepared plan of operations on a gigantic scale for a national industrial improvement of the natural resources of the United States of America.

It is pure optimism in actual operation, and the results are for all who will partake of its over-flowing abundance, which has ever been in waiting for man's higher unfoldment to realize his own valuation and worth, and that he is just what he thinks into form and use for his greater happiness .

This book is the key for the music of a new civilization which this people are now formulating as we are now passing out of the old race dispensation, which has filled the earth with tramps, beggars, want, worry and homeless mothers and orphan children, through war, carnage and death, through all the past ages by educating all peoples in the non-accumulations of all things that are for man's use and enjoyment here and now.

I will gladly accept any and all comments from each and every reader of this book and whatever you wish to say about it and I will keep them as guide-stakes to be used in my forthcoming book which I have been formulating since a mere child alone in the forest of my early childhood days, in Illinois, in its primitive settlements, which will furnish the play of the twentieth century, for the jubilee of the emancipation of the government of the United States from all entangling alliances with the European systems of debt-devouring and war disintegrating theories and practices, by the establishing of the world's peace of nations.

I now dedicate this book to the freedom of mother and child from her bondage of the ages, a homeless wanderer in her own country, to possess a home and comforts free from all taxation throughout all this land of endless possibilities.

—The Author.

Efficiency

It is the one quality that must be used by every one who is a prize winner.

It was the efficiency of Emanuel Sweedenburg in mechanical construction that saved him from a felon's cell or an ignominious governmental crucifixion for his religious teachings.

It was purely mental optimism that guided Joan d'Arc in her so successfully placing a pessimistic king on the throne.

It was the pessimistic church inefficiency that compelled Novila to lecture behind curtains on the Cannon laws.

Thomas A. Edison, universally acknowledged as the leading efficient optimist of this or any other age, has acquired his most wonderfully accumulated powers, by his proficiency in detail construction.

All the optimistic persons in theory only, have and will fail, in their desired attainments until they become efficient mental constructors.

The winners in every vocation yet to be discovered, as well as all those known to the race of man, are attained by those who see them in the unseen, and are able to bring them into the seen in useful form.

George Washington's unbounded optimism was ever supported by his exceptional efficiency in the use he made by handling in detail the finances of the people as well as those of his own.

It is this one power of exceptional efficiency that J. J. Hill continually exercises, that has made him the greatest railroad man of this age.

Aspatia, the historic teacher and lawyer of Athens in Ancient Greece, can be cited as one of the very few who operated the law of optimism, and in the face of all opposition won the most coveted prize of that then the center of philosophy and education, the position as the trainer of the greatest lawyers and orators of ancient times.

Hypatia is the unequalled expression of the oneness of all things within the individual who stands out as the ever-enduring blossom of all Egypt, having occupied the chair as instructor of law and mathematics for over forty years in the Neo-Platoinic school of Alexandria. She was as youthful at sixty as she was at sixteen. She was proving her science of perpetual youth in the body when assassinated by pessimistic religious fanatics for teaching the oneness in mind and body.

Abraham Lincoln's unshaken optimism in the people of the United States being capable of self-government, was fully exemplified when he signed the bill making the "greenback" a full legal tender money. This was his greatest official act. The passage of that bill by that Republican congress who passed it, was the only Congress that ever assembled to represent all the people of this Nation who did pass a bill to immediately relieve a sorely oppressed people. What is wanted now is an efficient Congress to represent all the people which will issue money immediately for all the people and relieve this debt cursed mortgaged and bonded Nation of a once free people. It is only another efficient Congress and President in the interest of all the people who will win in 1916.

The only congressmen, senators and President who will enact a law and sign it for all the people, will be those who are efficient in understanding and proficient in action.

Education

It is so easy for the man or woman to learn to be an efficient member of society. The acts that make some one person of so much value to themselves and the world are our true educators.

There is no record kept of the millions of human beings who are educated continually in the impractical things we are not able to use in our every-day life work.

The teachings of race beliefs has made the untold millions of earnest and honest human beings unfit for members of a society for the building and maintaining of a free government.

To know and understand is efficiency.

To be able to construct and accumulate shows your understanding of the law of growth.

Excuses only prove the inefficiency of your education.

Poverty proves that the law of addition was not understood in your educational training.

It is only wisdom to educate yourself to be an efficient woman or man.

It is so much easier to learn to be efficient than to study and try to understand the inefficient.

In the education of the race the student's time is continually occupied with failures of those in want, while the schools that bring out the learner's own unexpressed desires only keep in view the efficiency of the building force within man.

Precedent is a clog in the wheel of progress when it has already been tried and found wanting.

The tie that binds the people of a Nation into one inseparable union are the acts in an efficient government.

All thoughts that will build and add to our greater enjoyment will be of practical use in illustrating the efficiency of any system of education.

The guide for all students in attaining his or her objects of life is to strive continually to always be proficient in all he or she does.

Every time a beggar is fed without returning an equivalent, he or she is encouraged to continue his vocation of begging.

When we express sympathy for those in want, we attract want into our own affairs in business or health.

The thinkers are all asking, What is an optimist?

It is the every-day expression of all the successful women and men in this day of practical things.

It is the harmonic sounds vibrating in unison from the plasmic cell or center to the organized body forms and varieties of all cell life.

The efficiency of all thought expressed is found in the understanding of true value.

The unemployed in all walks of life only records the actual results of the impractical understanding in educating in the inefficient.

Failure is the product or amount each individual has directly received as their portion accurately acounted for in society's non-accumulative system of expenditure.

The law of supply and demand is always eqaul,

This is the basis for the statement that the mathematical optimist is always correct, while the pessimistic teaching is failure.

The Chinese Sage gave the law when he said, "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

Abraham Lincoln reaffirmed the law in government when he said, "A Nation cannot stand half free and half slave."

I here say that the increasing of debts in America is the only cause for the unemployed in our Nation. The insufficiency of legal tender money is the only cause for any and all debts. The government of the United States has guaranteed the payment of billions upon billions of debts said to be payable in gold coin, with less than one dollar in gold to pay a thousand dollars in debts.

Statement of Facts

The reader of these pages has no time to devote to any subject that when it is matured leaves him or her without a just reward.

It is the person who has already an unexpressed or an immature thought which he or she has never mentioned to any other living person who is earnestly and ever desirous of winning a substantial and a lasting success by careful and pains-taking analysis of all he reads.

Every reader's own thoughts are his soil, his seed, his plants and his matured fruit.

In every person's own individual thoughts are always stored all the acquired results he or she has so earnestly been hoping would be in his full possession some bright, cheerful, sun-shiny day.

Values accumulate each recurring time a reader has cause to think of the vast wealth he will receive when his most cherished thought of all his thought ideals has been fully matured; and his ever-increasing accumulations are the millions who are also thinking, building and growing useful things each for himself and herself will want to purchase and possess your so wisely constructed and already matured product, to aid them each one, in the maturing of their yet uncompleted productions.

No happiness is so valuable to any living person as a just and equitable compensation for his or her own matured thought.

All values that are worth your or my earnest effort in any field of production are only such maturing rewards as those when won will add continuously to our increasing enjoyment.

To read, to find out what the writer has to say upon any given subject or theme, will not give a return to the peruser the best results for his or her time given to any book or periodical.

The author of any article or series of articles must make clear a central thought or object to be obtained to induce any reader to think while he reads the author's written or printed manuscript or book.

The foregoing statement of facts being true, I now proceed to make clear the one paramount issue to be reached by all persons who will read this series of articles and each think for himself and herself as they each read.

My first and highest point of attainment to be reached by the printing of these pages is to remove from the statutes of the United States that law therein which forced the people of this Government into debts amounting to billions of dollars which they are compelled to pay without ever receiving an equivalent. There being no reason in equity or justice for such a statutory provision.

All other questions herein treated are subordinate and depend wholly upon the people of these United States (who are the Government) having a sufficient amount of money issued direct to the people themselves without the intervention of any banking corporation either domestic or foreign.

The unemployed men and women in this nation (as well as all nations upon the earth) are the result of the financial legislation of each government. Thus, the reader will soon see that the only permanent remedy for this uncalled-for condition of society is to establish a new and independent system of issuing our own money. This new system when adopted will immediately stop our Government from going into debt and paying interest to corporations or individuals for the use of the Government's own individual credit by statute only, for money to pay interest money.

What Congress must first do is to pass a law for the issuing of at least $2,000,000,000 in currency (paper money) in small denominations, this money to be a full legel tender for the payment of all debts both public and private. It will then be the duty of this Government to at once begin a system of national improvements, by building roads, irrigation dams and canals, and the improving of the numerous rivers and harbors of the United States yet untouched, and pay this United States money out for these permanent improvements. This will furnish legitimate employment for all the unemployed citizens of this Nation. The 63d Congress of 1913 will be known as the Wilson Congress, and it voted to build a Government railroad in Alaska, the sum of $35,000,000 is to be expended, but why the so-long delay? Do you know, reader: I will tell you why they are so slow. The United States again has no money of its own and President Wilson's special tax without any war is blocking all business. When the bill was passed by Congress it should have provided for the issue of $35,000,000 of legal tender money to pay for the construction and equipment of the road and there could have been thousands of unemployed amply provided for now.

Our Congress under President Roosevelt's administration inaugurated and made it possible to build the Panama Canal and also completed some of the most substantial and valuable irrigation systems in the United States ever constructed in the world.

The only mistake made by Congress then was that for all these New Improvements there should have been a new issue of United States money, a full legal tender, to pay for all new permanent improvements. But instead of paying cash the people of this Nation owe for all these improvements and bonds have been sold in Europe to pay for our improvements after the United States has done the work and furnished all the material that was used in their construction. The reader is soon to learn that the United States is amply able to pay cash for all her improvements instead of being in debt to corporations or individuals for every stroke of labor performed by all this industrious and ever willing people to grow and expand that all her people may be better provided for than the people were in the past ages. No man or woman should ever be idle in the United States for the want of money to pay legitimate wages.

Reader, let's you and I think this over. A man is building him a house which he has actual use for, and after he has his house completed, having performed all the labor himself and owned all the material that was used in the entire building, he having no money is compelled by law to mortgage or bond the building for the cost of material and labor performed, to some coroporation who has been given control by Congress of all the money to be used by all the people of this entire Nation. (I have just taken a man for example here in place of this Nation to illustrate the present proceedure of the present monetary laws of this Nation.) When the reader understands that this Government is paying for no improvements but is borrowing her own issued money and paying an interest to individuals and corporations for all this money she is putting into all the improvements that we are making or the Government is compelling the people through high taxes (tariffs) to bond and mortgage individuals, corporations, municipalities, counties and school districts, which is exactly the same thing as though the Government issued its bonds and mortgages direct and the corporations furnished the money to purchase these Government bonds which the Congress has voted into the corporations' possession. This is to make clear to any one who reads how all these billions of dollars we now owe to European people came to be issued, is the most salient point to be understood. When this is explained fully the reader will see why it is that there are millions out of employment.

The reader is soon to learn that the Government of the United States has not been issuing money. All she has been doing since 1864 is to go in debt and borrow money, and increase the taxes on the people to pay the interest upon the debts Congress has voted upon the people as a Nation. Let me make this point clear so you will not make a mistake in your final conclusion for yourself. This is what I mean. The results of the law which was placed upon the United States' statutes by Congressional enactment when it declared that the United States Government (again it means all the people) all the people will pay all their debts in gold coin. Since that law went into effect, the people having no gold coin of their own have issued their notes, mortgages and bonds calling for billions of dollars in gold coin which the United States has guaranteed to all the world, citizens and foreigners alike, that they will be paid in gold coin.

As the law now stands upon the statutes of the United States all the debts issued by every individual, corporation, municipality, county, district, school, State and Nation and sold to European people was authorized by this act of the Government and the people as a Nation are held responsible for the payment of all these debts in gold coin. This same act compelled all individuals and corporations in the Nation who make improvements and transact business to go into debt directly or indirectly. The law of this Government is the act of the people and the holders of all contract debts, notes, mortgages, bonds or other obligations calling for gold coin as payment or satisfaction of a debt is valid and the United States is by its own law compelled to pay these debts in gold coin. Such quantities of gold never was in existence—not gold enough to pay one-fourth the interest now due, and not enough to pay one-tenth of the taxes assessed against the American people annually. It follows that every year the people are forced by this same law to contract more debts to pay the interest upon the debts already entered into.

This all-absorbing and never-satisfied fiction law must be removed from our statutes before we have been compelled to create such a debt that it never can be paid.

The blind Congress leading a blind people are all tumbling into the ditch (debt)together. All business today in the United States is done on credit for the sole reason that the people have no money and all are in debt under this law. All that is left for the people to do is to vote more debts, as the people when they adopted the Constitution of the United States ceded all their rights to issue money to the United States Government, and the only possible way for the people to have money of their own is to elect a Congress who will do what the Constitution plainly says they shall do which words are as plain as the nose on the reader's own face, which are "To coin money and regulate the value thereof." There is only the one thing for the people to do and that is to at once institute a new system of money to prevent a financial collapse of our business and industries of our entire Nation.

The skeptic will ask, Who will take this money which is not based on gold? I answer, all the 100,000,000 of intelligent American people will use their own money for they are the only power who can issue money for their own use. No power on earth can make a legal tender money for the people of the United States except the people themselves through their lawfully elected and constituted Congress. This money will be a people's money and not a fictitious scrip issued by the United States Government to corporations upon the debts of the people of these United States as it is today. The intelligent American citizen will always be a law-abiding citizen. The perpetuity of this Union of the United States depends wholly upon the consent of the governed; that is, the will of the majority is all that constitutes the control in this Republic. This people make their own laws. They execute their own laws and whenever a law in operation fails to secure the people in their inherent right it is in the full power of this people to alter or change their laws at any time that the law proves to be inadequate for the needs and use of the people of this Nation.

The people of the United States have been called upon to change their Constitution from time to time. The Constitution when adopted contained statute laws permitting men to hold human beings as chattel slaves. The people changed that law. In many of our States the people have been changing their laws. To illustrate, in a number of the States women now vote at all elections. Also the people are changing the laws upon the use of whiskey and saloons. The majority in all these cases control. I am satisfied that two-thirds of the American people are ready to vote for this Government to own its own money, now. The people of the United States at the coming election are going to change that law that has given the control of all our money into the hands of a few corporations, and take full and complete charge of their own money, by issuing it direct to the people and in sufficient amounts to make all our exchanges and forever prohibit the creation of any more bonded indebtedness to be sold to European people to absorb all our wheat, cotton and all other products of this vast country, by the present gold basis now copied from the pagan nations of the departed ages which was the direct cause for their failure.

It is now up to each voter of this Nation to decide for himself and herself whether he or she is going to vote more debts or going to vote for money to do the legitimate business of this country to be issued direct to the people.

The skeptic here interjects another question: "How will the people get this money when it is issued?" I answer, by the Government paying out this money for permanent improvements—by receiving it back for all taxes and debts due the Government. Is that not simple enough for the average citizen to readily comprehend?

The reader is to understand this money question is not a party issue. It is wholly a question of mathematics to be used in the interest of the people as a Nation and not against the people and Nation in favor of corporations which are only creatures of the law of this Nation. These corporations have used their incorporated authority to enrich the people of Europe by selling the indebtedness of the people of the United States to them for the past fifty years, because the people of this Nation had no money of their own. During the last half century the debts of the United States have continually increased while the people of this Nation have produced all that it has taken to keep them in an abundance and a surplus sufficient to care for as many more people in Europe.

The reader is now to learn that all the products we ship out of this United States to European people is scarcely sufficient to pay the interest the American people now owe on their already created debts now in the hands of the people of Europe, and you are to learn that no difference how much is produced in this country as long as this old system of money is upon our statutes we will have to continually increase our debts until this Government through its Congress passes a law requiring the issue of money direct to the people of the United States sufficient to transact their own business in cash. As soon as the Government pays cash for all business carried on by the Nation, then it follows that the States can pay cash. When the Nation and the States are paying cash, then all other subdivisions of Government can and will be able to pay cash. This will soon relieve the corporation and the individuals who are in business from debts, the curse of all business.

When we have attained this intelligent and true understanding that money in its concrete form is only a tool to be used in the transaction of all business, and the manufacturers of this tool (money) belongs exclusively to the Government and that when the Nation through its law-enacting Congress does not manufacture its own money, that the people are then immediately forced to go in debt for they must have this tool (money) for the law requires them to possess it or fail. So all failures are for the want of money. All the unemployed are for the want of money. All debts are entered into for the want of cash—money.

Why Prosecute the Railroad Officials?

It is one of the least called for acts of this Government of the United States to be continually lawing the railroad officers of many of the transportation companies of this country. It shows one of two things, either that the law enacted by the Government was so illogically prepared by Government officials as to only admit of thieves and law-breakers running a railroad or that the law is so unjust to the corporations that the officers of rallroads have to evade the law to be able to keep their roads running. I am not going to decide which horn of this dilemma we are in as a Nattion, but will say that all these trials in the different courts are becoming a mockery upon our intelligence as a people. We cannot exist as a commercial people without some method or system for the transportation of the products of our people. Are we to admit that there is no set of men who are able to draw up a law in a plain, simple and comprehensive language, easily understood, so that a large proportion of the company's earnings will not have to be used defending the so-numerous and most unreasonable lawsuits they are continually having to defend themselves against in the various courts of the Nation?

There are thousands of people that think if they can beat a railroad company out of something or anything they are doing themselves and the people a great favor. I have been asked,

"Where do the people get such an idea from?" I answer most emphatically, it is from the actions of the Government. Any half-witted savage would answer that question. The daily and weekly press of the Nation has printed sacreheads and printed full columns for years of such news items as the Government's arrest of some corporation officer for some alleged illegal act, so that the people who do not investigate any farther think that all people connected with a railroad are only a set of land pirates, and that when there is a complaint filed against a railroad company, that every man and woman who works in their employ are all interested in the spoils of these corporations. This being the case, the people convict the railroad company without ever hearing any of the evidence. Judges are convinced through the public press and former decisions that every complaint against a railroad officer or the company is the truth and the evidence in hundreds of cases is never listened to by the jury in many Courts because the railroads are convicted before the trial comes to an issue and that seventy-five per cent. of all judgments rendered against the companies are for excessive and unjustifiable damages. The readers of this book are those who are seeking better conditions for themselves and you will each learn when you have read the full contents of this book why I say these things before you read the full explanation that I am required to give to make clear the conditions we are in as a people, and the remedies therefor.

Constitution on Money --- Bond Funding

On the way to better conditions spurs the earnest, optimistic woman or man to be honest and sincere to himself or herself at all times.

The choicest blooms in our flower gardens are upon the central stems of the most healthy and thrifty plants.

Upon a close and minute examination of all things I find that the choicest of every variety in all forms of life are those where the environments were such that its growth was the least hampered by detracting influences.

Human beings, societies and governments are only a growth and come within the same identical law that does that of plant and animal life.

The most cherished thoughts ever expressed by the optimist were those thought ideals when realized would bring to the individual who thought them a greater happiness.

The optimist that always wins is the one who studies only to win.

The winners in all forms of endeavor, thinks, reasons and does all things better each time he or she repeats the process of concrete formative building.

I find this to be true in all growth that the value of all productions depends for their stability and usefulness on the thing produced and I have come to this one conclusion that I am growing rapidly into a greater usefulness while thinking and arranging these words, phrases and sentences to build this article so it will aid the reader to arrange his or her thought ideals through his or her own mental concepts to build a more and greater useful life structure.

I here state I am not writing these articles telling any reader the thing to do, but to give him a positive assurance that he or she has all the material at hand to build themselves each into an optomist far more lasting and valuable than the most advanced ideas ever thought by anyone yet upon the earth. To make this clear and so understandable that no one can mistake my purpose I again write as follows, in statement form:

No girl or woman who has yet lived and objectified possesed the beauty that the 20th century beauty optimist is now forming.

No flower has yet come into form that can equal the optimistic flower growers' productions of the present day.

No orators of antiquity can be compared to the true orator of today who knows that he or she is an orator.

No cities were ever so convenient and useful as the ones now building.

No wealthy man or woman in all ages was ever so truly wealthy as the accumulators of our present age.

No inventions of ancient or modern times ever equalled the mechanisms of this present civilization.

No people of any government in all the ages were so capable of self-government as the people of this generation. It is the self-governing only who are fitted to conduct the affairs of any people's representative government.

No government of this present civilization is so capable of paying its so-long unjust and intolerable burdens of hundreds of billions of accumulated bonded debts as the United States of America.

It is my one purpose in the preparation of these pages to show how all bonded debts can be paid and the taxes of all our people be reduced to less than one-half what they are now. When the United States has paid up in full all the indebtedness of her peoples, she then will become the financial center of the world, which is the apex in government and the only safe guard for her permanent freedom.

It has been a slow but steady growth in government assistance to individual betterment yet it has achieved many great improvements in life's varied pursuits for temporary existence. Accuracy in government itself in its concrete working formulas has not been understood mathemtically in its fundamental reckoning to insure government permanency. On the failure of the ruling power in governmental affairs carries with these official failures all individuals, corporations, political parties, religions and societies of every name and character, which derive their authority to exist from the government as all are under the direct control of the central government.

Thus, it follows naturally that when the Government itself becomes a financial borrower it will compel all business enterprises requiring money for the transaction of business to become borrowers, and it invariably follows that all citizens of the Government are lawfully forced to the humiliating condition to go out in search for money to borrow. I have been asked why is this so? I answer this question in clear, simple and easily understood language: first, it has for all times been the teaching of Government; second, it is the rule that the citizen will vote as he or she has been taught; then it follows that the voters have been voting for this Nation to continue to be a borrower by sending to Congress only such men as will refuse to issue money, consequently our Congress has ever been increasing the debts of the citizens and the Nation. All money is national, therefore all debts are national, for debts can only be legally made and paid by nationally issued legal tender money.

Questioner asks: Why do you say that the Government teaches debt and borrowing. I answer that your question is clearly and definitely answered in the Constitution of the United States in Article I, Section 8, Paragraph 1: The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imports and excises, to pay the debts. This is the first constitutional provision on how the Government is to raise money to liquidate its debts.

Paragraph 2, of Section 8 reads: "To borrow money on the credit of the United States."

I here say that the teachings of all governments have been to go in debt, then organize an army and plunder some other nation or borrow money to pay their debts, then at once go into debt again, then their teaching is the same to go and borrow and pay the debt to one party and owe it to another and then proceed at once to go into debt again, thus it is a continuous increase of debts and an increase of taxes until the government fails, as fail it must under such a financial system.

The foregoing provisions of our Constitution have been literally followed by Congress since its adoption until our nation like all nations are all mortgaged and bonded. All nations follow this same identical debt, mortgage and bonding law. Thus I have shown you the uniform teaching in all nations to all peoples of the past centuries as well as our present age. I now proceed to again quote to you Paragraph 5, of Section 8, Article I, of our Constitution on the coinage of money, as follows: "To coin money and regulate the value thereof." Is not Paragraph 5, Section 8 in Article I, which I have just quoted as much a duty that Congress is charged with as Paragraphs 1 and 2 in Article I of the same section?

I here give the exact language of the Constitution on money in Section 10, Paragraph 1, of Article I, which says: "No State shall coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in the payment of debts." Thus, the student will find that under our Constitution there is no power on earth that can issue money for the people of this Government but Congress. A questioner asks, Why has not Congress been issuing money instead of increasing taxes and the issuing of bonds to borrow the money to pay the debts? I answer again that all the political party teachings have been to make debts, then issue more bonds to draw more interest and borrow more money creating another necessity for another increase of taxes to pay increased interest obligations. The reader has now before him all there is in the Constitution of the United States upon the money question. I now say to you as a thinker that the power that can legally make a debt has the full power to make legal money to pay its legal debts by this Constitution or else we have no Constitution. Bill Spooks asks me this question: What will be the security for this money you propose to issue? Answer: All the security any money has or ever had is the law, for money is only law. Money is only secure as long as the Government is solvent and when the Government becomes bankrupt it ceases to be a Government; therefore, it has no law, neither will it have any legal tender money. It is the Bill Spooks' organization that has furnished the teachings that has caused the downfall of all nations upon the earth. History is complete in its recital of all nations that have gone down—each one in its turn kept going in debt until the tax burden became so heavy that all producers were robbed of even a share of its earnings and money was so scarce that the excessive taxes could not be paid. Then the nations repudiated their debts. Rebellions and continuous wars followed for the lack of money, causing the downfall of all nations. It is the scarcity of money in Europe and execessive taxation that has caused the wholesale slaughter of the people and property of the greatest nations of Europe today. The industry, frugality and ceaseless toil in all walks of life are being swept away by the shot, shell and torch by the invading army so as to subdue and conquer, that the victorious nations may under the rules of war, plunder, rob and possess what the conquered nations have accumulated so that the victorious nations may possess money enough to pay the interest upon their burdensome debts acquired in times of national peace. What an appalling mockery in the name of religion and modern civilization! What a belittling of so much boasted improvement over the pagan nations of twenty-five centuries ago. I here ask myself, will the citizens of the United States as free voters, continue to do just as the so-called pagan nation and the now pretending Christian nations of Europe have done through the scarcity of a circulating money, always followed by an ever-increasing taxes—plunge themselves all into bonded debts so large that it was impossible to pay the accruing interest, so they have done just as the pagan nations had always done before them, which was to declare war on their neighbors that they may under the terms of nations plunder and rob the vanquished. The United States is today administered under her financial legislation by the same system of money that was used in China, Ancient Greece, Egypt, Babylon and Rome, and each of these nations perished through the creating of a bonded debt, which never was paid, but repudiated rather than to issue money and pay their debts. The creditors declared war for the collection of debts, which was an utter impossibility and the debtors to defend their homes and property fought till their property was all destroyed, while both debtor and creditor perished on the same battlefield and their families became wanderers to foreign countries or became tramps and beggars in their own country. It is no wonder to me when I read the farewell address of President Washington to the people on retiring from office when he said: "Would to God that there was a wall of fire surrounding the United States from all other nations through which no ship could pass." He saw the same devouring monetary system coming to the land of the free to enslave its people as had been the rule of all nations preceding him. No wonder then that Thaddeus Stevens in the Congress of the United States said, when they put the exception on the greenback that Congress had made only money for the creditor and only more taxes, debts, and bonds on the debtors.

Read what this man said at that time:

Vice-President's Chamber, Washington, D. C., December 13, 1867.

Yours of the 8th inst. is received, and I most cordially agree with every word and sentence of it. I am for the laboring portion of our people. The rich can take care of themselves. While I must scrupulously live up to all the contracts of the Government, and fight repudiation to the death, I will fight the bond holder as resolutely when he undertakes to get more than the pound of flesh. We never agreed to pay the 5-20s in gold. No man can find it in the bond, and I never will consent to have one payment for the bond holder and another for the people. It would sink any party and it ought to. To talk of specie payments or a return to specie under present circumstances, is to talk like a fool. It would destroy the country as effectually as a fire, and any contraction of the currency at this time is about as bad. But I have not time to give my ideas in full. Yours truly, Benjamin F. Waid, to Captain A. Denny, Eaton, Ohio.

Why Prosecute the Bank Officers?

When the Government is the direct cause of the failure of every bank in the United States of America since its passage of the first statute establishing a rule for the conducting of a banking business.

There are hundreds of bank officers who have been sent to jail for following a law made by the Government. Hundreds of bankers do not know that they by following the strict letter of the National banking laws and in the course of time every officer who is in charge of the affairs of a bank is on his way to the penitentiary if he follows all the provisions of that law.

It is the banking laws of the United States that have made more criminals than all other systems combined.

The banking laws are not under a general discussion in this series of articles, but are used to illustrate the cause of why we as a Nation and a people owe billions of dollars calling for gold coin in payment of contracts which the bankers never had, neither are they able to secure such quantities of gold coin which is only the deception and the plain facts that show the fountain-head for the so-called frauds in the manipulation by banking combines, classed as trusts, so when you are reading the following pages do not do as the people have done in the case of the railroad corporation, convict all bank officers and all clerks and employees who work in banks as being shareholders in all the funds that the people have been filched out of through the banking laws made by Congress.

In ninety-five cases out of every one hundred bank failures, the officers in charge of the bank were honest and sincere, and I will say that to be just in this class of cases if there is a necessity for any one going to jail, it is the duty of the Courts to immediately sign petitions for the reprieve of the inmates in the penitentiaries for bank failures and bring the congressmen, senators and the executive officers of the Government into court to show cause why they should not serve the same length of time in the penitentiary for making such laws or permitting them to remain on the statute books of this Nation. It would not be difficult to find a jury that would send Congress to jail and liberate the convicted bankers. The first plea of all governmental officials will be that they were ignorant of the true facts in the working of the law, but the Court will rule out all such pleas under the rulings that ignorance of the true intent of the law will not excuse any of the government officers, when they are charged with the imperative duty of making all laws in conformity with the Constitution of the United States for the protection of all the people of the Nation. The Court will find from the facts and the evidence when presented to it, that it is only ignorance that has produced all these undesirable conditions and will agree with me that it is not the purpose of this book to convict or punish any one, but it is our only purpose to provide a remedy so that there will be no necessity for any one to ever go to jail or a penitentiary for a failure to pay money, the Government through its Congress had not provided when it was the only power on the earth or anywhere else that had the constitutional power to issue money in the United States by which any of our people could legally pay or discharge our debts.

American Money

It means a money of the people, by the people and for the people.

There is no government today on the earth where the people own all their own money.

The people of the United States only own now about $346,080,000 of all the money that circulates in their great and extensive commercial business transactions.

Paper Money.

The principal issues of United States paper money was officially called United States notes. These were the well-known "greenback" or "legal tenders." The Act of February 25, 1862, authorized the issue of $150,000,000. The second issue of $150,000,000 was authorized by the Act of July 11, 1862, and the third issue of $150,000,000 was authorized by the act of March 3, 1863.

The reader who wants to go into all the details of the issue of the people's own money by the Congress of the United States will find it fully explained in Circular No. 52, United States Treasury Department, issued July 1, 1912, on page 32.

All students and citizens who read this book will want to know how there could be paper money. To make this little book explicit I herewith print extracts from the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, which can be found in most all law offices and libraries in the Nation. The decisions are printed in 12 Wallace (79, U. S.) 457, 110 U. S. 421. I here print some short extracts from the Supreme Court of the United States in their decisions on the legal tender quality constituting money. The Court says:

Legal Tender Decisions by Supreme Court of the United States

"Now, if it were certain that nothing else would have supplied the absolute necessity of the Treasury, that nothing else would have enabled the Government to maintain its armies and navy, that nothing else would have saved the Government and the Constitution from destruction, while the Legal Tender Acts would, could any one be bold enough to assert that Congress transgressed its powers? Or if these enactments did make these results, can it be maintained now that they were not for a legitimate end, or "appropriate and adapted to that end," in the language of Chief Justice Marshall. That they did work such results is not to be doubted. Something revived the drooping faith of the people; something brought immediately to the Government's aid the resources of the Nation, and something enabled the successful prosecution of the war, and the preservation of the national life. What was it, if not the Legal Tender Enactments? * * * * Making the notes legal tender gave them a new use, and it needs no argument to show that the value of these things is in proportion to the use to which they may be applied. * * * The obligation of a contract to pay money is to pay that which the law shall recognize as money when the payment is made. If there is anything settled by the decisions, it is this, and we do not understand it to be contradicted. * * * No one ever doubted that a debt of $1000 contracted before 1834, could be paid by one hundred eagles coined after that year, though they contained no more gold than ninety-four eagles such as were coined when the contract was made, and this, not because of the intrinsic value of the coin, but because of its legal value. The eagles coined after 1834 were not money until they were authorized by law and had they been coined before, without a law fixing their legal value, they could no more have paid a debt than uncoined bullion, or cotton, or wheat. Every contract for the payment of money simply is necessary subject to the constitutional power of the Government over the currency, whatever that power may be, and the obligation of the parties is, therefore, assumed with reference to that power.

The reader having thus far seen that I am not advocating some new and untried monetary law, but only trying to simplify the explanation of money and what it is.

All the money that goes into circulation should belong to the people of the United States. It should be issued by the Government and protected by the Nation. There is no reason or justice in this Nation ever borrowing one dollar of money. The idea of such a system that this Nation with all its vast resources and its already accumulated wealth going out to borrow money, to pay interest upon bonds that have been drawing interest from this already over-taxed people. No such a condition could exist for a single hour if the people were only educated upon their constitutional powers. It is only the ignorance of the law that has permitted all this accumulation of public and private debts.

The reader can see that the United States, whose people are so energetic and productive, that ever since we became a Nation we have produced an abundance to feed and clothe all her people and a surplus to ship to foreign countries. This being the fact why should this Nation owe one dollar, let alone the appalling fact that as a people, we the United States, now owe billions of dollars in debts. We have everything to provide for the comfort and sustenance of the people of the United States except money in sufficient quantities to facilitate the exchange of commodities.

Why the people should own their own money can be illustrated by the following problem. The reader will understand that on the $346,080,000 of legal tender money which the people have owned since 1862, has never cost the people of the United States one cent of interest since its issue. This money has been available for use for over fifty-two years. I will here work out the mathematical solution so as to show why the people should own all their own money. I will take the

at	4%
which equals (1 year's interest)	$13,843,200
Years since issued	52
	27686400
Interest for 52 years	$719,846,400

The reader will see that the people have saved $719,846,400 of interest they would have owned at 4 per cent per annum. Now, is it not plain to see that when the United States issues all its own money that there will be no interest to pay and that the taxes will soon be reduced to a mere pittance. The reader can see that had Congress issued bonds for this $346,080,000 at 4 per cent. per annum the people would now owe $719,846,400 of interest which would have had to be refunded into bonds to pay this interest. Now add $346,080,000 plus $719,846,400 and it equals $1,059,926,400. This one billion fifty-nine millions, nine hundred twenty-six thousand four hundred dollars is in the hands of the people and had all the money been issued and owned by the people, there would not be a bond or mortgage held in Europe against any of the American people. Our corporations, cities, counties, states, school districts, and the people in all vocations of life could have secured all the money in the United States to have carried on all their own business. This will bring financial indepence to the United States and all her people, which will insure the continuance of freedom to this Republic from the entanglements that the now debt-cursed nations of Europe are fighting over. It is only ignorance that has created all debts and it follows that to free this Nation of its unjust burden of debts the people must become educated to their own power to furnish all the money that is required for the use of all the people of this Nation. I here repeat the statement of the fact that a Nation which can issue bonds drawing interest and make them good can more easily issue the same amount of money which will be absolutely good, for every dollar of money in circulation adds to every productive people. It stimulates new enterprises and gives freedom and encouragement to new inventions, arts and sciences.

The issuing of a full legal tender money is an undisputed right the people have under the Constitution and the adjudicated laws of the United States; and all there is to be done is for the people to send to Congress only such Senators and Representatives who will vote to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to have issued this lawful paper money. Now, the reader can see by the law that National Bank notes are redeemable with "greenbacks," legal tender money, which will show you at once that the Government should not farm out to one set of corporations the power to circulate their notes unless they give the same privilege to all corporations to circulate their notes which would bring endless confusion. Then to avoid all unjust legislation and confusion, the United States should issue only legal tender money, and cease to lease out the authority to any corporation or corporations to circulate their notes and loan them to the people at a high rate of interest and at the same time draw an interest from the people upon bonds issued by the Government, thus the people are now paying double interest upon every dollar of National Bank notes which are in circulation.

Here let me charge the reader that we are not here to fight any system of money now in use. I am only showing just what will allow all the people to be able to secure money at a reasonable exchange for their productions as will best enable them to continue to improve, expand and grow as their intelligence and growing wants may require.

I would coin all the gold as it is coined today.

I would coin all the silver that would come to the mints the same as gold.

I would re-issue the $50,000,000 in fractional currency, and put it into circulation as it is the most convenient form of fractional money ever circulated.

The reader must remember that we as a Nation are paying 4 per cent. per annum on $50,000,000 of United States bonds known as silver bonds, which were sold and the proceeds from the sale of these bonds were used to purchase copper, tin, nickel, zinc and silver from which to coin 1-cent pieces, 5-cent pieces, 10-cent pieces, 25-cent pieces and 50-cent pieces.

It was the act of an ignorant Congress which authorized the issuing of the $50,000,000 of silver bonds at 4 per cent. to run for thirty years to take the place of the fractional paper currency. I will here again make the solution by mathematical computation which will show you that Congress should at once re-issue the fractional paper money. I now take the amount of bonds issued at 4%.

Interest for one year	$2,000,000.00
Number of years run	30
Interest for 30 years	$60,000,000

The reader will see that the United States would have to borrow $10,000,000 more silver to pay the interest at the end of the first thirty years So as to keep the fractional coin in circulation, Congress will have to issue bonds for the $50,000,000, plus the interest of $60,000,000, which equals $110,000,000 and which will be the amount of bonds we will owe at the end of the first thirty years to keep the $50,000,000 of fractional coin money in circulation. Had Congress left the $49,000,000 of paper fractional money in circulation which was the people's own money, we would have saved a bond issue of $110,000,000 in thirty years and this people's money was more convenient and practical than the old barbarous metal system of bronze for money.

The people who study and think upon the acts of the Government will readily understand that there is not now and neither has there ever been gold and silver enough mined in all the history of nations to supply a circulating medium. The issuing of paper money has always had to be resorted to, to supply the needs of commerce. Then the only question to be decided is who shall issue this paper money and circulate it, the people of the United States or some corporation which must receive its charter from the Government of the United States?

The ablest statesmen and the best-known public men of the United States have all expressed their opinion on this most vital of all questions before the people of this United States at this time; which is, Shall the people of the United States own and circulate their own money?

The reader is now asked to look up the opinion of Thomas Jefferson in his works, Vol. VI, pp. 40-41.

Then read the opinion of Benjamin Franklin, James Madison, Andrew Jackson, John Tyler, John C. Calhoun, Thomas H. Benton, Albert Gallatin, Hon. J. M. Bright and Hon. S. P. Chase. I advise the student to read "The Money of Nations" by Judge Warwick Morton, published by the Library Publishing Company, Washington, D. C.

Before I leave the subject I want to make the issue of money so simple to the reader that he or she cannot be mistaken in what to do and to say on this subject. When the student has learned for himself or herself that it is no longer a disputed question as to the full power under the Constitution of the United States for Congress to issue a full legal tender money, I have accomplished all that this series of articles are intended to establish.

AUTHORITIES ON MONEY.

I will now here reprint some authorities and their definitions of money.

Attorney-General Akerman, in speaking of the legal tender act, said:

"Money is not a substance but an impression of legal authority—a printed legal decree."

Tiffany on Constitutional Law, a standard authority, Chapter XII (Power of Congress to Coin Money), Section 400, page 221, says:

"There is legally no such thing as gold or silver money, or paper money. Money is the sovereign authority impressed on that which is capable of taking and retaining the impression. That upon which the stamp is placed is called Coin; the coin may be metal, parchment or paper. The value is in the stamp and not in the metal or material."

Cernuchi says:

"Money is a value created by law; its basis is legal and not material. It is, perhaps, not easy to convince anyone that the value of metalic money is created by law. It is, however, the fact. It makes no difference of what material money is composed, whether it is costly or otherwise; the law of legal tender gives value to money, and that value increases or diminishes in proportion as the volume is greater or less."

Ricardo says:

"By limiting the quantity of money it can be raised to any conceivable value. It is on this principle that paper money circulates. Though it has no intrinsic value, yet, by limiting its quantity, its value in exchange is as great as an equal quantity of coin. On these principles, it will be seen, that it is not necessary that paper money should be payable in specie to secure its value."

Sir John Sinclair says:

"It was a great discovery when a metalic medium was substituted for barter; it was also a great discovery when paper convertible into coin was substituted for gold and silver; but a third discovery was reserved for our own times, namely, that with an inconvertible paper currency, agriculture, commerce and manufactures might advance in a career of unexampled prosperity."

Mr. Gallatin says:

"If in a country which wants and possesses a metalic currency of seventy millions of dollars, a paper currency to the same amount should be substituted, the seventy millions in gold and silver, being no longer wanted for that purpose, will be exported, and the returns may be converted into a productive capital and add an equal amount of wealth of the country."

Ricardo's Proposal for an Econimc and Secure Currency, says:

"A well-regulated paper currency is so great an improvement in commerce, that I should greatly regret if prejudice should induce us to return to a system of less utility. The introduction of the precious metals for the purposes of money may with truth be considered as one of the most important steps toward the improvement of commerce and the arts of civilized life; but it is no less true that with the advancement of knowledge and science, we discover that it would be another improvement to banish them again from the employment of which during a less enlightened period, they had been so advantageously applied."

"The theory of the intrinsic value of money has been abandoned by the best writers and speakers."—Encyclopedia Britannica.

"Metalic money, while acting as coin, is identical with paper money, in respect to being destitute of intrinsic value."—North American Review.

"An article is determined to be money by reason of the performance by it of certain functions, without regard to its form or substance."Appleton's American Encyclopedia.

Hon. Amasa Walker says in his Money Problems, page 6:

"Every paper dollar, unless a specie dollar, is held deposited for its redemption, displaces gold and silver coin, and in so far diminishes the demand for the precious metals, and in so far reduces their value. A mixed currency, whenever it exisits, form the standard of value as truly as does a coin currency when it alone exists."

LAWS ISSUING MONEY.

Congress is not limited by the Constitution to any material out of which to make money. They made and stamped paper money in 1791; copper in 1793; copper and silver in 1794; gold, copper and silver in 1795; copper and nickel in 1857; copper, tin and zinc in 1864; paper in 1861, 1862, 1863 and 1864; copper and nickel in 1866. There are no limitations mentioned in the Constitution as to what the Congress shall or shall not authorize as money. Copper is used by all nations as money.

The gold dollar, under the law of 1792, contained 24.75 grains gold and 2.25 alloy, making 27 grains standard gold. Under the law of 1837, the gold dollar contained 23.22 grains gold and 2.57 alloy, making 25.8 grains standard gold, being 1.53 grains less pure gold in the latter than in the former dollar.

The law of 1792, made the silver dollar 416 grains standard silver, 371¼ grains pure metal, and 44¾ grains copper alloy. The law of 1837 made the silver dollar 412½ grains, 371¼ silver and 41¼ copper, the alloy in silver dollar being reduced by law of 1837, 3½ grains, leaving the silver therein the same as under the law of 1792.

The law of 1864 makes the cent to contain only 48 grains, 95 parts copper, and 5 parts tin and zinc, and makes them legal tender for 10 cents only.

The law of 1866 made five-cent pieces containing 77 grains, 75 per cent. copper and 25 per cent. nickel, and legal tender for $1 under that law; but the law of 1873 has made them legal tender for 25 cents only. Previous to 1853 all silver coins of the United States had been full legal tender.

All paper money that has been issued by the United States are known as "notes." From 1791, until 1812, notes of the first bank of the United States were money, and a full legal tender for all debts due the Government. They were demonetized by Congress in 1812 after the charter of the bank expired.

From 1812 until 1822 Treasury notes were money and a legal tender for all debts due the Government. They were demonetized when the second bank of the United States was chartered.

From 1816 until 1836 the notes of the second bank of the United States were money, and a legal tender for all debts due the Government. They were demonetized in 1836.

From 1836 to 1837 State Bank notes where the public money was deposited, were money and a legal tender to the Government.

From 1837 until 1862, Treasury Notes, whether drawing interest or not, were money and a legal tender for all debts due the Government. The laws of 1837, 1838, 1841, 1842, 1846, and 1857 made them legal tender.

In 1861 and 1862, $60,000,000 demand Treasury Notes were made money and a legal tender for everything, and were equal to coin.

In 1862 legal tender Treasury Notes were made money for everything except duties on imports and interest on the public debt.

Certificates of the Government for coin deposits were made money and a legal tender for everything.

Certificates of indebtedness, clearing house certificates, three-year interest notes, one-year interest notes, 7-30 notes, compound interest notes, and 3 per cent. certificates of the Government were made money and a legal tender for everything except duties on imports and interest upon the public debt.

National Bank notes were, in 1863, made money and a legal tender for all debts due the Government, except duties on imports and interest on the public debt. They were not legal tender in payment to individuals by the banks or the Government. They are not now. Congress demonetized silver in 1873. It has been remonetized since.

The foregoing recited acts of Congress are to show the reader and student that Congress has from the foundation of our Government never restricted legal tender money to any two or more metals but you will find by the record that this Government has always used its constitutional power to issue a full legal tender paper money.

Then, all that Congress has to do is to issue money sufficient to transact the businesss of the people of the United States, which will stop the sale of bonds and other securities in Europe to draw interest from the people of this nation. There should be but one form of paper money and that should be a full legal tender for all debts, both public and private. All new improvements should be made by the issuing of new money. This will put a stop to the unbearable burdens of an ever-increasing taxation.

The preposterous idea that there must be an army of revenue collectors paid high salaries to collect taxes from every industry in the country to pay taxes on debts created by this Government, to make improvements, when all industries are weakening under the already excessive interest charges, high wages and oppressive legislation, which has been forced upon all corporations, and men and women who have attempted to do a legitimate business in the past forty years, is nonsense. On the failure of Congress to provide a legal tender money in sufficient quantities to meet the requirements of the ever-expanding business of the United States is the sole and only cause for the organizing of the so-called trusts. The United States Congresses are the only parties responsible for every trust that has ever been formed in the United States and not the individuals who are the parties composing the trust.

The greatest public criminals that ever set foot upon the soil of the United States were all made through legislation by Congress upon the money question. Our National banking laws have always been a pool in which crime was the only result that could follow if the law was literally followed.

As the act of Congress creating the bonded debts was a crime within itself, so all institution built upon a law which is unjust adds criminals which increase wherever that law is the basis for the business transacted. The present Regoinal Banks are no remedy for the old National Banking systems of one debt being made the basis for the creating of another debt based upon a former created debt. The whole scheme of the law of debt is to keep the people in debt. When the issuing of money a full legal tender defeats all increase of debts and provides the people and the Nation with a currency to pay all current expenses and in time will enable them to pay the already accumulated billions of dollars of debts now held against every foot of land belonging to the United States and every citizen therein. The people of this Republic are cursed and doubly-cursed with an ever-increasing debt voted upon themselves through their own ignorance of the law of money.

Who Will I Thank?

Thursday, November 26, 1914, Bryn Mawr, King County, and State of Washington, U. S. A.

At home for the first time in many years on this nationally proclaimed feast day, by all acting presidents of this Republic, almost ever since the founding of this Government.

I arose at 5 o'clock a. m. this morning, kindled three fires and took a complete survey of stored foods which were ample for our present need. Then I closely estimated the fuel supply of both wood and coal, exclusive of the fuel gas and light, which is always ready, responding to the match more quickly than the majority of prayers issuing from stomachs crammed full of dressings on turkey, which is greased, extending two-thirds of the way up into the esophagus on such as this natal day, calls for, besides other trimmings, which I will omit here on account of their irregular and inharmonious spelling, and not saying anything about their effect on the human anatomy when prepared for this day of renowned stomach worship.

My wife and daughter had arranged to visit my wife's sister and family residing at the town of Auburn, Washington, some twenty-seven miles up or down the valley from Seattle. Breakfast is over and the sun-worshipper's god is peeping through the mists and fog, so I have concluded, as I am alone according to the race, I will prove my view of the ever-presence of all things to myself by holding an informal reception with all the living as well as those whom the race think they have buried and consigned them as follows; a very few have been piloted to their elysian fields of plenty to eat, which is prepared by their mystic master quicker than I can say scat at the old spotted cat when it is on a thanksgiving dinner table gnawing away at the left hind quarter of a three-year-old turkey hen gobbler, which has been prepared for this annually renowned occasion in millions of homes and the eat shops of this mortgaged and bonded cursed nation of motley mixed and blood-be-sprinkled people from all nations. While at this very moment the Christian nations of Europe are spilling blood sufficient to wash all their bonding sins away, with Pagan Turkey just ready to jump into Greece for their rights unsettled in the old score.

Last evening while I was on the streets of Seattle where the cooked and the uncooked eatables in endless varieties were in piles upon every hand, produced by the industrious and pains-taking men and women of Washington and other States and countries, and while the people were preying upon one another, and elbowing their way through the increasing throngs—I heard a racket in the street—looking, I beheld a wagon drawn by large, healthy, turkey, hog and beef-eaters—men and boys, with a sign on it in these words: "1200 men and women in Seattle who are hungry." I at once said to myself, if that is a fact, every one of the 1200 ought to be exceedingly thankful to themselves that they had escaped being in the Austrian army when the Russian army emptied their breech-loading Christian repeating guns, and in the following days put 40,000 hungry Austrians into one grave to feed the earth which is always hungry like men and women who eat all they can get without giving an equivalent, and are continually parading themselves upon the earth somewhere as the children of some relentless and always hungry god. Had the committee on display wagon sign come to me, to write their sign to create a sensation on that afternoon before race thanksgiving holiday, and said, "We want to attract the attention of the world to secure a donation of a grubstake, will you write for us a display sign?" I would have written it as follows: There are 351,200 people in Seattle who will be hungry. Tomorrow is the national Thanksgiving day, and out of this population there are 1200 of us men and women who have been fools by fooling ourselves and we want a grubstake tonight.—Here I would have placed a George Washington dash, and then added the following—We want our grub now.—Scriptural quotations: Provide not for the morrow. Let each day provide for itself. The only ones that will ever be blessed are us 1200 meek and lowly in our grub supply on this earth. Your Lord is our shepherd. We are hungry, feed us. We are now as your lambs, always bleating. We are hungry day by day. This is our way of procuring food. The psalmist has said, he never saw the righteous forsaken nor their seed begging bread. We are the righteous of all these hungry people. Donate liberally. Our society are all lovers of the cheerful givers. Donate now and we will be blessed and thankful. That the poor ye have with you always even unto the end of the earth. We are here to stay with you. Give us our grub today and every day alike, worlds without end for our hunger is never satisfied to exceed a few short hours at any one time. We are the direct descendants of Hiram of Muckle, meaning hungry, and Maurum of Teo, his wife, meaning much. Then a strict translation for us is: much hungry. This last thought is the clincher. When people understand; it would cause all that have to immediately begin to donate to us to whom all things to eat rightfully belong.

In looking back over my copy I find I have been absorbed in writing a statement of facts for the hungry, which is surely applicable on this natal feast day.

So, I will now proceed to call in President U. S. Grant, and shall ask him why is it necessary that there are so many unemployed, hungry beggars in the United States today, when our people have produced foods enough to feed all our people and as many more?

Here comes ex-President Grant and his answer:

"I was born, raised and educated a hard money, hard times Democrat. And I signed the bill when President to burn up the people's money (the legal tender greenbacks) and issued in their stead a bonded debt drawing interest to take the place of the people's money, both interest and principal payable in gold coin. Something the people did not have and neither do they produce, and never will have. The sole reason for all the unhappy condition now in the United States is that the people have no money except interest-bearing. Every dollar of money used in all avenues of industry has to be borrowed and there was nowhere for the progressive people of the United States to secure money, only to borrow it of foreign people. Money they must have and the only way they could secure money was to mortgage and bond to secure a currency. The people of the United States as individuals and corporations now owe in Europe our $600,000,000 in interest at this time, which is to be paid in gold coin. This interest alone will take all the surplus wheat crop of this Nation to pay it. So you see by my signing the bill to refund the people's money into interest-bearing bonds I gave to Eruope for this year all the surplus food of the United States and more too, so these are the only causes for financial shortage, food shortage, and the three millions of unemployed laborers in the United States, and the only effectual remedy for all these conditions is for the Government of the United States to re-issue all the cancelled and burned-up paper money which will supply the Nation with its own money." U. S. Grant's answer to my direct question as before stated, November 26, 1914, 4 p. m.

Mothers' Homes to Be Exempt From All Taxation

A bill to exempt the home of all mothers in the United States of America from all taxation.

Provisions of the Bill.

Exempts from all taxation a resident lot in every city and village in the United States, and a lot or parcel of land in the county containing from one-half to five acres, with all the buildings, furniture, fixtures, musical instruments, libraries, works of art, decorations, pictures, paintings, without regard to estimated values of any and all homes in the United States of America, when owned and occupied as a homestead by any and all mothers who have borne a child and are the holders of title to the homestead in their own name.

To become operative and in full force after the passage of the law authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States to issue $2,000,000,000 of full legal tender paper money to pay for national improvements and employ all the unemployed men, women and children in the Nation, at a reasonable wage compensation (a full explanation of that bill is to be found under another heading in this book).

Since the early dawn of the 17th century the oppressed of all Europe have been looking to America as their one country where they could escape the all-absorbing system of taxation, where they could own a home and would be permitted to retain it as the one place where mother and child would not be evicted and turned out upon the world to tramp and beg for shelter and food to save her child from storms and hunger through the tax collectors inexorable law, which is pay your taxes or the law will sell your home, and mother and child will be turned out upon the street without shelter or food; to satisfy this relic of barbarism used by the roving bands in human form since the early days of primitive man—who by might is right—confiscated all products that suited their fancy and left the producer in want and despair, after devouring all food supplies and carrying away with them all things possible and what they were not able to remove, were destroyed or burned to ashes. Many more facts I could state as to the treatment of both mother and child, but will omit all but the points that apply to the law to be passed, to provide after all these centuries, a law that will protect the mother and her child to own and occupy her own home and reside therein without taxation from any and every source and under all conditions.

Through all the ages of man's occupation of this earth, in every form of government, even during the matriarchial periods, the mother has had to bear the burdens of government. She has been compelled to become a mother through sale and bargain for price without her consent and against her expressed protest. She has been made a dependent by both religious and civil governments through their teachings and custom laws. She has been the inventor, architect, provider, builder and maintainer of the homes and abode of all the children of the races of man. Early in the unfoldment of the reasoning faculties of the mother, she discovered that many animals would return to a selected place to receive proferred food, so she applied her tests made upon the animals, to her lord and master, (afterwards called husband)to return at stated times to eat the food she had provided for him. This was the extent of the support given to the mother and the child by the law-named husband. As the centuries have circled away, even unto this day, since man made a record, his vocation has been and his time spent in the chase of the wild animal or on the battlefields that have covered the earth many times. Down to this very hour the mothers of the children of the race are still homeless and the mothers are still toiling to provide food and shelter for their homeless children, and meet the ever-increasing war taxes charged up to them by putting a double war tax upon every pound of food and yard of cloth and all necessaries to preserve the life of a fatherless child while the husband's body was decaying in an unknown trench in a foreign land.

The hundreds of thousands, yes, millions of mothers, who have had their homes confiscated by excessive war taxes after they had earned them, for the want of money to pay the government tax placed upon them during the present civilization ought to cause every citizen in all nations to declare an immediate armistice for ten days, sign articles of agreement for a world's peace of nations, for the next thousand years, and imemdiately begin to expend the same amount of money in the building of homes and providing for the mothers of the children of the races of man for a thousand years to come as was spent in war in the past two thousand years.

The mother and the mothers of the races have not only been made to bear the burdens of bearing and caring for the daughters and sons of the races of mothers and provide for the care of the nations in peace, but have been compelled to give their sons in divided columns in their prime of maturity to become a target for one another in a frenzied fury, to receive the death dealing, tommahawk, spear, arrow, dart, bludgeon, sword, bullet and cannon balls filled with deadly poisons thrown as projectiles at long range and the all-devouring dynamite bombs have been planted in the seas and on the lands to destroy whole regiments at one explosion on the land or send to the bottom of the ocean a ship and its crew of hundreds of men. And this is not all. The daughters of these mothers are again forced through the same ordeal to keep this tragic, drastic display of races and nations from having time to consider why and how all this turmoil, and mothers' never ending toil, is visited upon her daughters, in its endless chain of never ending toil, in poverty, hunger and want. While the earth with its inexhaustible supply is ever ready to give forth from its storehouse of all that all mothers and all her generations can use and consume of both necessaries and luxuries. Thus, it has been as nations have come and gone. The cry of the mothers for a release from these continuous repetitions has been met and silenced by that many times multiplied centuries ago through religion and government, religion leading, playing the first card, with its fabricated fiction in the following: that the mothers shall bring forth their children in pain and sorrow, for they are "conceived in sin and iniquity." Immediately the Government (religions always side partner) throws its trump by saying to the mothers: "Go forth and multiply and replenish the earth.". The mothers hold up their hands in horror, saying to the governments, "You have drafted our sons and husbands and slaughtered them like beasts in a slaughter pen and there are no husbands for our fair daughters; in what manner shall our daughters become mothers,"

This reasoning mothers' query, non-plusses government—religion is steadfast. Their game is blocked. At the headquarters of each of this triumvirate, silence, has been ordered and a secret session is convened, special committees pass to and from religion to government and vice versa. The cannon are muffled, prayers are uttered only between long intervals. Broad day is as silent as a midnight hour. Mothers are waiting to hear with bated breathing, hoping against hope that her daughter's trials were over and that home, peace, plenty and comfort will be their lot, and as mother utters these words—My trial, sorrow, want and deprivations will be forgotten. The messenger has left the secret chamber to notify the mothers to bring their daughters to religion's headquarters to hear the answer agreed upon in answer to the mother's query: "In what manner shall our daughters become mothers?" Mothers with their fair daughters hasten to the hall of assembying. On their entering they behold the administrative platform crowded with church dignitaries and government officials commingling together rank and rank in solemn silence. The chief dignitary for the church offered a most selemn prayer for the comfort and mercy to be bestowed upon the mothers who had been so ruthlessly robbed of their sons and husbands and that they are to be provided with fathers that the earth may be replenished with many more sons to fight the battles of the most high on earth. At this juncture of this most solemn prayer —Inclusia, the spokesman for the mothers, arose from her seat and in a clear and emphatic language said: "We mothers with our daughters are here, to hear the answer, to our query, Are we not to receive our answer now," The Chief of Government arose with a flouish of state, the guards at the doors presented arms. Then he spoke in an over awing manner, saying, "Woman is not permitted to speak in church, and the All Reverend is not again to be disturbed in his officiating on this solemn and most important occasion to both Church and State. When we are ready, we will announce our finding and it will be from our common divinity from above and in these words, 'Wives, obey your husbands,' and for the impudence of this one woman in not keeping silent in church, I order you all to return to your station in life, where it has pleased our most high to place you here." The guards were instructed to permit no woman to speak within this or any other sacred sanctuary while they remain on earth. This most solemn service was then closed by the Chief of State, while the great hall was being cleared of all mothers and their fair daughters by passing out between rows of guards, in glittering uniforms and costly arms. Not a word was spoken by a solitary mother or daughter until they were out of hearing of these arrogant dignitaries from now on to be known as State and Church when those in the lead come to a halt, suddenly, while those in the rear moved forward more rapidly until they had bcome one vast assembly. Then Inclusia, their spokesman, arose and said to that vast audience:

"Our daughters are doomed, though the earth will be replenished and repeopled through our daughters by the lust of the dignitaries of both Church and State by taking our daughters as concubinage wives and as fast as their sons are grown to maturity they will be ordered to the battlefields and the battles will go on, with the same pomp and glitter that was displayed by the Chief of State when I asked that solemn prayer reciter, a straight forward and legitimate question. You all heard his answer. Our fair daughters will be debauched and deceived to conceive, and their sons and daughters will be separated at early ages. Their daughters who can be controlled by the Church dignitaries will become their secret concubine religious slaves and toil for the sole benefit of the ruling and officiating Church. The unruly and disobedient to all Church discipline will be condemned, villified and branded as out-casts neither fit for the most high or the associates of either Church or State. These will be huddled together, for the use and lusts of the soldiers and the bums of men who also refuse to be controlled by this combine of Church and State, and they will revel in the lust of the depraved, by permission of the State by the payment of sums of money equal to the revenue derived by the Church from those who toil for the Church in secret and sumissive slavery.

"There will be a few of our daughters who will find a few of our sons who will escape between the lines of battle, who will marry and build them homes, only to be robbed by the State and mobbed by the Church, but their sons and daughters will educate their sons and daughters to develop the earth, and after the rise and fall of the nations, and the Church decays in its own secret deceptions and fictitious conceptions. Through education, justice and equity, in two thousand years from now the mothers here now will be the mothers then and our husbands in the filds of battle will be our husbands then, standing side by side in one mighty movement, one single purpose, and one eternal and unending triumph, will build a nation out of the builders of all nations, where the mother and the child will be encouraged and aided in providing home, food and comfort, in a land more and more real—possessing more available and ever-increasing wealth, with its teeming millions—the choice of the earth, who will have outlived this generation of bombastic, degenate deceivers in Church and the bigotted, brainless Chiefs of State who are sustained by an enforced army who parade in uniforms trimmed in glittering tinsel and brass, who are kept to guard the secret acts of the debauchers, of the subdued and crushed mothers and daughters of this and past ages, who feed, clothe and sustain both Church and State thorugh their incessant and never-ending toil of these homeless mothers with their fatherless children, whose homes have been taxed from them by a confiscating war tax, and the earnings of their secret and open concubinage of both Church and State with the hundreds and thousands of mothers and daughters who have been enforced to bear sons for the battlefield and daughters for the lusts and support of the depraved, through the agents of these uninformed who do not understand that the one cell life in all things, is all mother and ever remains potentially mother though it adds by subdividing and uniting to endless infinity. The mother and the daughter are the same in age and youth, and never can be defeated nor annihilated, for mother was before the earth, yet she is the earth, which is all mother as everything in it, on it, around it, below it, and above it, is mother. And when those bombastic degenerate deceivers in Church and the bigotted, brainless, in conceit reasoning, Chiefs of State as you mothers and our fair daughters here assembled, heard from that bombastic platform, did not know that in the order of their unfoldment, that they themselves were the result of this long quadrennial centuries multiplied by as many more centuries of this continous rule which has produced all such mental deformities as they are claiming to represent and if they would just think for one moment, they each would know that they could not have been, if it had not been for mother, who conceived, gestated to ripening maturity, then gave birth to each and every one of them, then nurtured, fed and sheltered them while she at the same time was doubly taxed to support a like set of deformed degenerates, whose mother like their mother, was robbed of the life-giving body-building units, in cell-adding entities, to unfold a mother, so they were each ripened as a half-starved mother, just as the drones in the hive of bees are, so that this most high—these dwarfs are talking about were only a lot of the same set of undeveloped mothers, that they themselves are. You will remember that the guards were orderd not to permit a woman to speak in that or any of their other sacred sanctuaries while they lived upon the earth, as though those decaying degenerates could conceive of any possible way to produce that building without mother when it was the mother seed in which was all the trees, in which was the lumber, the sand, the rock, the metal, the paint, and all the decorations, even the guards and their glittering uniforms, their guns, were there through mother, and without mother they could not have been, for the tiniest atom to man, is only mother and from man to their most high that these degenerates speak of with so much solemn sactity, could never have been known and heard, by them, had not mother conceived and borne them. Oh, what folly and ignorance the mothers of understanding have had to contend against that the races of mothers might continue in their daughters and sons, the seed germ and the expression in body form to go on to and possess in its fullness of the inexhaustible storehouse of this earth filled to overflowing with all the treasures in endless varieties to fully and satisfactorily satisfy our every want now and for all the never-ending ages that mother has in her indisputable possession now, to make this her earth to produce from thought to seed, seed to plant, plant to fruit, and fruit to mother in an endless and never-ending succession for the full enjoyment of all the races and each and every expression in all forms that will come from the unseen into the seen through mother's desire in her own understanding of all she is and her power to make and produce for her and her children greater health, wealth and happiness, so that her daughters and sons who can build homes of comfort, supplied with foods in profusion where their daughters can dwell with their children produced by their own desire and selection, protected by the State from the tortures through the teachings of this generation of degenerates who are deformed and are inflicting their deformity upon the crushed and cringing enforced-bearing mothers who have toiled incessantly that their children might be sheltered, and grow to maturity, to again be forced to repeat this same round of endless toil.

"I say to mothers and our daughters here now that this inhuman and unholy trio of Church and State which is bringing on a night of darkness more beastly hideous and nauseating to conscious motherhood than my tongue can find words to utter, that I may explain to you that darkness the people of this earth which is so full of worth and beauty for all the living, are being led into such miseries never before experienced as the mothers and their daughters are being forced into by this combination known now as Church and State, but there will come a new civilization out of these darkening years that will doubly repay every individual mother and all mothers for our meeting here today while those hydra-headed monsters, Church and State, who are in secret planning the further subjugation of all the mothers and daughters now living and all that are to be for generations yet to come. Let us, you and I, be diligent students in all things that will give to the mother and the child the full and equal rights to entitle them to possess a home free from all taxation as the Church now is freed which produces nothing but exists from the production of homeless mothers with their helpless children.

Secret Session of Church and State Before the Present Era

When the assembly hall had been completely cleared of the mothers and their daughters who had been ordered by the Chief of State to their tenements which were miserable dark and unventilated rooms owned by the Church free from taxation by State, from which the Church derived large revenues for rentals from these homeless mothers. The officials of both Church and State were so absorbed with their directing the guards to search every nook and corner of their sacred hall for possible spies of those who were known to be opposed to this long rule of Church then known as State and Church, that the mothers and their daughters were undisturbed during the whole time of Inclusia's great speech, on open grounds where they had been permitted to gather to hear the news of the battles that were kept constantly before all the people under strict censorship by joint committees from both Church and State. Everything being made securely locked and barred with double rows of guards on the outside of their so-sacred sanctuary where no woman ever again was ever to be permitted to speak or allowed to ask a question in a public audience or the so-sacred and solemn services for the officers of State or the robed dignitaries and officiating membership were communing with their most high who had been for many ages past and were so successfully leading their armies in exterminating all who opposed them in many lands and nations.

The women slaves, the property of the Church dignitaries, had been ordered to clean and garnish the inner chamber where the committee was to meet to hear the final report of the joint committee of both State and Church in framing their final answer to them, declared to be the most blasphemous of all accursed by their most high of woman kind, Inclusia, who had defiled their sacred temple by her most brazen intrusion into the ordinance committed to the dignitaries of the Church, to say, who should be the fathers of their children, both mothers and daughters, whether they had husbands or not.

The committee now is guided by trusted guards who are ever watchful day and night, into the inner sanctuary. The dignitary of the Church was made the committee chairman with the Chief of State to sit at his left hand. Then another complete search was instituted within this holy of holies for spies in hiding. A special officer was sent to the quarters where the women belonging to the Church dignitaries lived, to see that each and every one of them were in their appointed places, with this decree that they were to remain there until notified that they would be permitted to leave them under penalty of three months' solitary confinement in the offenders' prison. A double guard was stationed at every entrance way into this inner chamber, the secret way of escape was revealed to this committee and unlocked so that the papers and documents of this committee could not be captured and carried away by force. All things now being made secure, the second dignitary of the Church was empowered to read the findings of these supreme rulers of the lands of the whole earth and the people thereon. He read as follows:

"1st. We have but one question to answer; asked by that brazen-faced Inclusian, who disturbed our highest and most holy dignitary in his most solemn devotional exercises by rising to her feet and asking the following most blasphemous and immoral question in the face of all these dignitaries of the Church and the high officers of State, charging them thus: 'You have drafted our sons and husbands and slaughtered them like beasts in a slaughterhouse, and there are no husbands for our fair daughters, in what manner shall our daughters become mothers?' We answer boldly and authoritatively that we will draft the fairest of all their daughters to be our concubine wives who will bear at our command or suffer death, and all concubine wives shall provide for themselves and these bastard children and pay a stipulated amount into the Church's sacred funds and a like amount into the funds for the State for the mainteance of our army which is fighting for our most high and holy one and the spread of his Church in all lands.

"2nd. We have already put into our holy ordinances, in our revealed book, this divine exception, for all our dignitaries and their officiating officers that to be the father of any number of children with any of these so-numerous daughters is no sin, to us, in authority, but we allow the State to make it a sin and a crime outside the holy bonds of matrimony under the directions of the Church. This will provide a large revenue for the support of the State's armies.

"3rd. We will deny the State the authority to issue money in any quantities that would permit the employment of our bond women, concubine-wives or their daughters, to receive pay for their work in any department whatever that would provide them and their daughters with but a scant living in time of peace and much less in time of war, with a small weekly payment to the Church and a larger exaction by the State in time of war. And we will see to it that there is war most of the time.

"4th. We will deny the State the authority to issue money in any such amounts as would enable the people to pay their debts for if the people who are not with us, were out of debt that would enable these, our bond women, to be better paid, and form an alliance with these brazen, immoral women outside our immediate control, and become officers in the State and destroy our most ancient and most holy divine institution now or ever can be upon the earth, controlled by us, men, of the most high for his highest glory and the ever remembrance of his servants who are born in the sheds for the beasts by daughters of bond-women unknown to us in high authority—and there is now a need for many more similar births to save these lost and immoral bastard sons who frequent the abodes of the State's portion of the numerous daughters who many times outnumber their sons after their term of service in the army of our most high. All these women we have pronounced wholly lost to us, as they neither work for the Church, bear children for the army or pay us Church dues, which is the only means by which the Church of the most high can sustain his rule on earth.

"5th. We deny all women this, our holy privilege of preaching our most high's revealed word, to them, by us in any devotional service.

"6th. We deny the State the authority to permit any woman to practise law or hold the sacred office of Judge in the State, or in any country in the world.

"7th. We absolutely and emphatically will not permit any school to exist, in any country of all our most high's earth, to teach, any woman or their daughters our once most sacred profession, that of healing the sick and attending at the birth of our most holy ones begotten under our supervision and divine authority.

"8th. Woman's place and position in all things must be subject to the direction of her husband, and we have unanimously agreed to adopt this ordinance and teach them to obey it. 'If the wife wants to know anything, she must ask her husband.'"

"9th. Slaves, obey your masters.

"10th. All children born out of wedlock not sanctioned and solemnized by officers of the Church shall be known as bastard and both mother and child disinherited while on earth or with our most high. This will always keep the Church and State fully supplied with both men and women who will work for us without wage or hope of reward.

"11th. The State shall command all women to go forth and multiply and replenish the earth. This will compel the millions to devote their lives in toil for the sole benefit of us who are in control.

"12th. The Church will control the schools and do the teaching. It will allow the State to issue all the money in very limited quantities so as not to permit the unruly in the church teaching to become independent or self-sustaining so that they would want to have anything to do or say in either religious or political affairs.

"13th. No bastard will be permitted to hold office in any state.

"14th. All ordinances here passed shall be kept secret from all women, and only be announced when occasion requires it by the high dignitaries of the Church.

"15th. It is the special province of the Church to secure all the money they can from all people by begging for it under any provocation they may please to proclaim.

"16th. The Church will authorize the State to levy and collect large sums of money, making the burdens of all mothers a most severe lot which will keep them from owning a home in which to bear their children which are begotten in sin and iniquity.

"17th. This secret body reserves the right to state anything we see fit in response to any and all questions asked any of us as to where or how these ordinances came into our possession and whatever answer one of us makes, all the members will say: 'He spoke the truth.' This will give unity to our teachings and solemnity to our most dignified offices.

"18th. I now move that we adjourn this most divine gathering and return at the call of our most high dignitary for our further instructions, without discussion here or outside this most holy inner temple where none but the select few can ever enter. The committee arose, passing out one at a time, through the secret passage way leading some distance from the hall into a public building which led out to the public streets."

The foregoing acts are the rules that have been followed for the eons of ages which have produced all the poverty, hunger and want ever upon the earth, and has made the mother and her child homeless in their own country.

The speech of Inclusia to the mothers and daughters under that ancient patriachal religio-government that had existed, in China, where it originated, and had been the rule of many distinct dynasties that had come and gone, and was at its height when Fling Wall Cong decided to surround all China with a massive wall that would protect their religio-government which had so completely subjugated the mother and all mothers to the will and control of their ruling tribal secret session who claimed to be in communication with their most high, which only meant that the stars or planets were the guides of all things upon the earth because they shined at night.

Inclusia tells you much more for your enlightenment and liberation than was ever given by all the Jewish prophets in their religio-governmental teachings which controlled the leading civiliaztions of the earth for more than two thousand years.

By traditional history you can read of its proclaimed founder, Abraham, in a frenzied fury sending his bond-woman, Hager, with her infant bastard child afterwards called Ishmael, into a strange land without food or shelter, for various reasons, to him and this trio secret combine, the principal one given was that Sarah, his first wife of a series, had taken sweepstakes of all former records and borne him a child at so great an age, which was so active that a few hours after his birth he was displaying wonderful things and Sarah arose with the strength unequalled before and had everything smack span clean, while the child yet unnamed was examining the register of Abraham's numerous concubine-wives and the enormous entries of names of their bastard children, when Sarah says to her so precocious child, "What art thee doing, my son of Abraham?" The child, who was only a few hours from delivery, answered his mother, saying: "I am getting ready to offer my protest to my father Abraham to any more encumbering of these records with fictitious names of bastard children whose mothers are strangers to me." On hearing this thing, Sarah put on the skillet to fry beefsteak and onions for Abraham and be ready to make her demand that Hager be dismissed and exported by excommunication and the expunging of the records that her son of only so tender hours had been experting for clerical errors and the juggling of funds, which must be discontinued henceforth. You can read of King David with his right smart chance of these concubine wives, and Solomon, son of David, who followed his father, as King of the Jews, with an enrollment in three books with 500 concubine wives in each book or series, making in all 1500 wives and concubine-wives, and at the end of his so successful reign of drafting the fairest daughters from all the mothers of all the Jews, he is quoted as saying that this is all vanity and vexation for none of all this large list could mix his spirits to his satisfaction, so he refused to be buncoed any longer and resigned his job. And so has ended the career of all these most high star-gazers from China to Lost Atlantus, from

Atlantus to Egypt and Peru in South America, from Peru and Egypt to India and Greece, with Jewish Babylonia vieing with one another in their subjugation of all mothers to the adopted rule of that secret trio of Religion and State and all decaying with that same disease called leprosy. From Babylon and Greece to Rome, whose founders through trickery captured from the surrounding tribes of the then-called barbarians, their fairest daughters and immediately invoked the rule of that same secret trio of religion and State, and after 800 years of the subjugation of mother and daughter, and their daughters in providing for government and Church, sending their sons to the army and their daughters to be debauched by the ruling forces who constantly demanded of them greater sacrifices for both State and Church than any civiliation preceding them. From Rome to Europe, and Europe back to America and the battle is still raging, but with the cheering thought in the newest news, that the day for the Emancipation of Mother and Child is at hand, when the earth will be redeemed from its long night of deceptive race teachings in America, a land of endless opportunities, which answers to the so-clearly described thought expressed by that far-away Inclusia of ancient Greece, followed by that ever-fertile-brained Aspatia, who though a barbarian, according to the laws of the Athenians, yet the peer of them all, who had preceded her. She was the superior of men of both State and Church in science, law and oratory. It was Aspatia who was the teacher and trainer of Socrates and Pericles, whose thoughts are the basis of the Declaration of America's discovery, being the land of the free and the home of the brave. It was through the teachings of Socrates that led Plato to found the school of all medieval and modern civiliaztions and has had no equal in depth of research into the powers man posseses innately.

It was from the teachings of Plato that evelved the choicest flower of the motherly mother in the person of Hypatia, who shines out as the luminary in conscious motherhood and expresses without comparison the climax in the attainment of mothers' inherent power to continually reproduce herself in objective form in continuous youth and beauty and at the same time lead all her competitors in the attainment as a mathmetician, lawyer and the science of governments, superiority in its teachings to that of the church of her time which so enraged the then Church advocates to such a pitch that they mobbed her in her defenseless and daily pursuit as a teacher and lecturer for not submitting to the orders of the secret trio convening in the early days of Ancient Greece. The assassination of Hypatia was ordered from the decrees entered centuries before Aspatia opened her school in Athens, the center of the then known world, for education. Hypatia's teachings are liberating millions of over-burdened mothers who are toiling for food for her homeless child in all lands and nations of the earth.

It was the annullment of the law of that secret trio, which forced Cleopatra of Egypt to marry her brother of 18 years of age, according to her father's will, that she might inherit her portion of the government, and on the death of this brother-husband, the will of her father compelled her to marry her younger brother of 11 years. This was the climax and the end of the first law of that secret trio of Church and State which had been enforced upon all mothers and their daughters through all the ages up to her time. To break that law Cleopatra had to murder her younger brother-husband of 11 years of age. She was compelled to marry him and her only hope of freedom for herself and all daughters was in the act of her taking the life of her 11-year-old brother-husband who by the law she must obey. Thus, the reader will begin to see, possibly for the first time, what the bondage of mother and daughter has been during all these centuries by the combined rule of Church and State, in its teachings, rulings and decisions.

America, this land we now occupy, which had been governed by many peoples and nations, teaching and practising these same laws, long centuries before that little mother Isabella, who as Queen of all the Spainsh mothers and daughters of her nation, saw in the Columbus plan of discovery a hope for the mothers and daughters of today. She it was that pledged her all then accumulated valuables that new conditions in government might induce the ruling forces to liberate the mother and child.

She was followed by Elizabeth Winston of England, who put her fortune on the altar as a sacrifice to build, equip and sail the historic Mayflower and landed in on the then bleak and desolate shores of the Atlantic at Plymouth Rock, with its loaded cabins and decks with oppressed mothers and daughters of the then civilized England, who in their loneliness sang songs of home and freedom for their sons and daughters, only to be followed with the infamous teachings of the trio which has made all nations' mothers and their daughters the burden bearers of both Church and State.

Two hundred and twenty-seven years of continuous toil for mothers and daughters on the shores of America had been endured, with all their schools and colleges and not a single daughter had ever been admitted to a college in this country where she could study to practice law, mathematics, preaching or medicine. It was in 1847 that Lucy Stone of Massachusetts dared to meet this trio barricaded decree against mother and daughter, by asking her father to let her go to college and be educated with her brothers. When he answered, "No, it is only for you to learn how to cook for a husband," she answered. "It is an education I want and not a husband." When her father replied, "Lucy, you are crazy and I never want to hear you speak of college or education again." Her father's answer never daunted this courageous daughter. She earned some money and then began to ask to be admitted as a student in the colleges of her own State but they all refused her. She finally was admitted to a little college at Oberland, Ohio. She was disinherited by her father and her brothers would not associate with her. She found two sisters in Oberland who occupied a single room who took her in with them and the three occupied one room and one bed, where Lucy, the despised at home and at the college by men of the Church and State. Lucy studied and between recitations earned a scant living for three years. When graduation day came she was the peer of all the men and students of her class. Lucy Stone had broken the law of this ancient trio, and the colleges of the United States must open their doors to daughters and sons of mothers alike.

Antoinette Brown, who followed Lucy Stone to Oberland College, Ohio, and asked to be admitted as a student in the theological class, after some delays was finally enrolled. She was looked upon as a disgrace to the college and the trio would never sanction a woman preacher, but Antoinette Brown was there for a purpose that law must be broken. Many recitations in the class room were disheartening to their Biblical theories but Antionette was never defeated. When graduation day came, the faculty told her she could write an essay but she would not be permitted to read it; one of the Church dignitaries would read it for her. Her answer was, "I will write it if you will assure me it will be read as I write it." This was refused her, so she did not write the essay. They told her she could have a diploma but she should never be licensed to preach. Antoinette Brown then said: "Give me my diploma and I will attend to the preaching." She preached for many years. Thus, one by one, those old secret session ordinances have crumbled before mother's onward march in mental unfoldment.

It was Elizabeth Blackwell who was to invade the inner sacred sanctuary of the centuries' old medical schools in America, with their closed and barred doors against mothers and daughters entering therein to learn of the high hypocrasies taught in the medical colleges, in the giving of drugs and their effect upon the tissues and the whole mechanism of the human body so long protected by both Church and State since their ancient secret trio session. After being refused entrance into all the medical colleges of the United States and chided for her unwomanly acts, for attempting to follow such an immoral profession, the medical students of a college at Geneva, New York, thinking it a great joke, voted a majority of them to admit her into their class then numbering 446, and notified her that she could enter the medical college of Geneva, New York. On receiving the notice of her acceptance she presented herself for enrollment and began her studies. When the whole class and the professors with the citizens of the town fumed themselves into a head of jack-asses, hooted at her, hired hoodlum boys to go on the streets and salute her as "A She Doctor" and throw mud on her while she went to and from the class room. Elizabeth Blackwell had all the courage of conscious motherhood and knowing this, she knew no defeat. She won a triumph more glorious for the emancipation of the mother and child from those drug fiend destroyers who have lived for all these centuries supported from the mother's toil, and the miseries in which the daughters have been taught to destroy themselves to meet the demands of both State and church.

Elizabeth Blackwell won in the class room. She earned her diploma and received it. Her classmates, numbering 446, all men, her professors all men, looked at her in amazement, saying what manner of woman is this Elizabeth Blackwell, who has achieved such a victory as none of us can hope to equal and had to associate with us like a lone fawn surrounded by us, a herd of jack-asses, in a single enclosed pasture, and continually braying at her and with those disheartening surroundings, Elizabeth Blackwell has come out more than conqueror?

It was Elizabeth Blackwell as a student in a medical college who prepared the fuse that ignited the tanks of dynamite (drugs) and blew them up and scattered them back to their original elements, and paved the way for drugless healing which will build a race of human beings where the mother and the daughter may live in homes with plenty in peace and comfort.

On hearing the news of Elizabeth Blackwell's achievements, the medical colleges of the country held a secret session and investigated into the acts of the medical board of directors at Geneva, New York, as to Elizabeth Blackwell's ability to master the course of study, which was a surprise and a chigrin to the medical fraternity in hearing the facts. They voted unanimously to close the doors and bar them so as to forever exclude women henceforth and forever from the privilege of studying medicine under the direction of the medical union trust, but the die was cast and the work was done and never could be undone for mother and daughter had now control of the key that had locked them in as prisoners and condemned to toil, in misery and want to maintain the ordinance of that ancient trio that no woman should ever be permitted to practice midicine in any land or nation. Single handed and alone, Elizabeth Blackwell made her way into the last of that trio's secret anchor-ship, and with a giant and fertile brain faced the bulls and bears of State and the tigers and hyenas of Church who lead the mobs, and fired a mental torpedo that sent to the waste places of the earth, where ignorance is worshipped, that most infamous ordinance denying woman the privilege to study and learn how to care for the sick and afflicted when MOTHER IS THE HEALER. And yet prohibited from practising by statute law. Mother is not to be daunted or blocked by special legislation for she is invention. When Mary Baker Eddy catches the mental messages from the universe beyond the trio's control as they pass between Church and State, and she announced her healing without drugs or the skapel, and opens her college, but the trio is on her track while she is persecuted by both Church and State, but this does not discourage mother, although she meets many breakers on her way, but mother will win, and win she must, though she retreats to the shelters of the eves of the Church, and you know the result. She healed without drugs, but not all her patients. A nation is moved and there is confusion, and at the very entrance of the so-long secured barricaded inner working of both Church and State was there a breaking away from this trio's ordinances. When in the midst of all this seeming confusion comes Helen Wilmans, the peer in the early dawning of the 20th century, who became the expert mental transmitter and receiver in one unbroken magnet who most successfully heals many patients that no other system ever established and taught, was capable of doing with their system, which she named Mental Science Healing. She could heal without being in miles or even hundreds and thousands of miles distant from the sick and afflicted men, women and children who were calling on her from all quarters of the inhabitable globe. Old things were passing away and the new was bringing the world into a glory and the possession of the power of self-healing which no people before us had ever possessed and was able to use.

Though the wires were invisible, healing messages could be safely and accurately transmitted by Helen Wilmans and received by her patients whenever located on land or sea. Helen Wilmans was a mother, optimistic philanthropist, for the healing of the world. She called Inclusia, who answered instantly saying, "Helen Wilmans, mother of Healers, in your healing the mothers and daughters of the earth will be freed!" She then called Aspatia, who answered in such eloquence that the world was not mistaken, for the dawn of better things was really here. Helen then called Hypatia, whose logic in cell building in perpetuity and never-ending on the earth fairly lifted Helen to the domes of the universe, and there was no mathematical inaccuracies, for Hypatia was the mathematician. Helen then called the maligned, battle-scarred and asp-stung Cleopatra, who immediately replied, "Be true to mother and daughter, for the trio enslavers of the ages are on your track, the principles of the declaration at the birth of the American Republic have been trampled under foot; but the mother and her child will outlive all their oppressors." Helen then called Isabella, who answered, saying: "America has wealth inexhaustible where mother and child can possess home, food and comfort as no other land has been able to provide. There is wealth for all the races of mothers."

Helen then called Elizabeth Blackwell, who was on the wires, and answered: "Mother Healer, your cause was my cause, and the trio's are setting their traps for you, but the mother and daughter will be freed. Be true to thine own law for all healing is within the one who desires to be healed. The earth will stand forever but tradition and deception in both Church and State combining to make mother the burden bearer for them both will be dissolved in America; health is only the product of conscious understanding in the law of uniformity through selection in growth and mother is the selection of the child in objectifying."

Where,oh where, does that man live who does not know that his mother and he, as a child, has suffered these wrongs long enough; and that on November next on national election morn, he will go to the polls and vote to free all mothers' homes from all taxation fee, in every form, whether the sun shines or it storms.

Oh, what will the mothers do who read this lesson through and through and think just one thought for mother and child, whether she lives in a palace, a hovel or roams in the wilds, to encourage all voters to vote for me that I and my child may own a home from taxes free, where I may teach him and her our nation's pride that the homes of all mothers, the nation wide, are entered free on the tax collector's guide, and we are now permitted to live on the land above the tide.

Hear us now and hear us then,
All you loyal sons and men.
When by your votes our homes are freed,
And you and I and all law agreed.

The Law of Entail Devouring All Europe

The motives and high ideals that actuated the investment of Elizabeth Winston in equipping the Mayflower to bring a large number of optimistic men and women to America so as to prove their ideals, still lives in the growing and expanding thoughts of the American Republic. Although 300 years has circled away according to record no time has been lost and no defeat has been recorded since that historic ship landed its all optimistic home-seeking voyagers to this land of endless opportunities.

All ideals are only valuable when put into practical operation.

Worth can only be estimated by the unthinking masses when made into things of practical use.

The then far-away shores of uncivilized America are now the food center for stricken and decaying governmental theories of pessimistic European system of special privileges through their class law of entailment.

The pessimistic teaching of the anti-deluvian world having been adopted by all governments of Europe, there has followed nothing but dogmatic wars for supremacy of rulership.

While Europe was constantly engaged in these wars with one another and with a strict censorship upon all advancement in idealistic growth on the European continent, men and women everywhere were driven to America to the land then known as the uncivilized. America then became the only harbor upon the earth where all men and women with an optimistic tendency were permitted to think and speak their own thoughts. Thus America was nicknamed as the land of the free by the ruling forces of Europe.

All shades of idealistic thinkers at once accepted this new nick name given them by the pessimistic rulers and their advocates in all Europe. Thus America was conceded to be free from the tyrannical rule of the Pagan-Christian teaching of the then called Old World or a world where advancement was prohibited and decay was on the thrones.

Every oppressive act, whether it was that of thought or deed in Europe, added to the mental word freedom in America. Thus so much dependence was placed in the meaning of the word freedom, that many practical things were neglected in the enactment of the administrative laws of this in sentimental name only called a free government.

It has always been the rule that where the idealist did not make his or her ideas things of use, that the unthinking masses inevitably took sides with the pessimistic teachings of the race.

I find that from the very foundation of this Republic that the one and only sure power used in all Europe to defeat the freedom of the people there was engrafted into the laws of this Republic at its very inception and that what all Europe had so persistently fastened upon all her nations was such laws as could only result in the savagery of war as is now being enacted by the masses of Europe in their self-disintegration on their many fields of human carnage.

All the oppressed, starving, stricken and defeated in all Europe are now lisping as of old, "Oh, for a land of the free!" I find that the very individuals who use the word freedom in thousands of instances never think that to be able to become the recipients of this freedom they must each be a law-maker, judge and executor. By these terms I mean that freedom is not an epithet, neither is it a nickname now, but is in its innate entity all that sentiment has given to it. But to be enjoyed and possessed by any people and made lasting it has to become practical and must be the ruling law of the nation. Money is now the only thing lacking in this nation to bring about that freedom that the races of man have so long been looking for, in their slow but upward climb to national and individual freedom. The people of this Nation are the only people upon the earth who are in a position now to establish their absolute financial freedom.

The optimist's ideal freedom is now to become a reality with all the sentimental enjoyment to be a fixed and permanent reward to all who desire to live and let live all people who are or may become citizens of this Republic.

The unemployed are to be given permanent employment. Tramps and beggars are to disappear as wisdom takes the place of ignorance in our halls of national legislation.

Health is going to be the rule for all people who have studied diseases for the past centuries for they are now going to learn how to be healthy by understanding the law of their own individual growth.

The so-called poor of this Nation are to become possessors of homes of comfort and plenty.

The rich will become in their homes and business life absolutely secure.

The race wars of the ages are no more to be a cause for the declaration of war by the people of this free Republic.

The unsanitary tenements are to be replaced by substantial and healthy dwellings for a free people.

The congested centers in our great cities are to be relieved through the rapid development of streets, roads, boulevards and thoroughfares extending out in the rural homes by auto and rapid transportation facilities. The choicest locations for homes for all who desire the best of this most bounteous earth will be established in the suburbs and country adjoining the large cities.

The following inquiries we have been sending out to learn how many there are who want to be free and independent? Where are the people to be found who will be free?

To what nation are we to go to find a people who are the best fitted by sentiment, name and education to be a free people?

What must the citizens know to be possessors of all that the word, freedom in sentiment implies?

When will I be a free man or woman? What will this Nation do first to prove to the pessimistic world that the United States of America is in fact a free Nation and that all her people are in possession of their individual liberty?

When the foreging questions have been given a full and complete answer to each and all of them and as many more as the reader desires to ask, our Nation and individuals will be in possession of their own freedom.

Every optimist who reads this book will understand the full meaning and worth of every optimistic person's own thoughts, and all who want to possess the results of true optimism will read and re-read these pages until the unreal or sentimental freedom advocate is mentally reconstructed or made over from a race pessimist into an optimistic posessor of his or her own personal and national liberty to think, talk, speak, write or vote unrestricted freedom into the possession of the most stubborn pessimist that ever set foot upon American soil. A government where the true mathematical solution is the only guide for the enactment of every law is the only government that can ever maintain its freedom.

The poverty of the whole earth is the direct result of the pessimistic law governing nations.

It was in the famine of money which produced the curses of debts and these enforced debts which produce only poverty and want, that was the cause of the disintegration and fall of all ancient nations, and it is these financial laws of antiquity fostered upon modern Europe which is now in its titanic struggle of want and dissolution.

The optimist who has foresight and reason mathematically ballanced has no moments to spend figuring out the cause for the inhuman slaughter now going on by once friendly nations in that all proud and productive Europe.

Every war and all wars that have blackened the pages of all history are from the one source and the same law, while all the glimpses of a real freedom that man has ever witnessed were by those enactments of law that gave a cash consideration at the completion of the contract or in other words paid cash to all producers and created no debts of entail for coming posterity to struggle, toil, stint and starve to pay interest (taxes) on debts that were contracted by a lot of ignorant officials on financial law, who were elected by a lot of pessimistic party voters who study only effect and continued to vote entailing more debts, calling for more interest, and never paying but kept continually funding and refunding both interest and principal, promising to pay in gold coin, that which the people neither had or produced in peace or in war. It is this law of entailing of debts that is devouring Europe in this carnival of human slaughter.

The United States has been voted into this colossal plot of debt entailment and self-slaughter is the declaration of the pessimistic citizen and alien alike.

The cry of the Macedonians of old is now heard in all walks of life.

Pretending optimistic newspapers in America and Europe are the means by which beggary and want are made respectable, to aid the gold basis fraud advocate to be continually kept in office by mystifying their already debt cursed readers.

In, by and through the adoption from Europe of this law of the entailment of debts, we have already filled this land of endless supply for all her people, while tramps, beggars and paupers are multiplying at an equal ration to the ever-increasing of the gold bearing debts of this once free people.

The unemployed grow in greater numbers year by year just as the debts and demands of the government for more taxes (tariffs) are levied upon corporations and industries in all productive lines. The millions of the earth who were once self-sustaining are now enrolling as absolute dependents.

The cry and want in the long centuries of the ages, of their all-absorbing debt entailment is now becoming real in this supposed land of the free, and the only relief now offered is to follow in the footsteps of all departed nations as they are doing in modern Europe, to become a nation of beggars in their own country.

The Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A., institutions sustained by begging, are advertising to the world that they have no positions for the unemployed

The labor unions are continually demanding an increase in wages and a reduction in the number of hours for a day's work, with one half of their membership out of work or on the tramp, for the sole reason that the corporations and manufacturers are in the same fix that this 1915 administration of the United States government is in which it has no money to carry on their legitimate business, each and all of them having become self-mystified in the European gold basis which means in toto nothing but debt entailments or credit system.

The banker and loan companies are following the course of the Babylonians by increasing their rates of interest and doubling their commissions for securing loans, and money is so secluded that these rates will not induce these gold basis advocates to allow the people to continue business in this so-called free America.

Our President congratulates his son-in-law, Secretary McAdoo, on their so successfully launching of the "Three-in-One" $20,000,000,000 pawn shops for the already debt cursed bankers of America who are out of money, like our government, the railroad companies, and all employers of labor throughout this Nation, with a number of auxiliary banks as trumps, of all the three balled credit shops in America. At the same time our President wants to make the people think he is an optimist because his Congress has been able to drain the United States Treasury through a party entailed traditional theory, and has also succeeded in taxing all the first and second-hand seating capacity in the five-cent show halls in the Nation to make up a deficiency of $107,000,000 in Government revenues in one and one-half years of tariff tinkering, instead of using the Constitution of this Nation and issuing money direct to the people. The bankers of this Nation, Mr. President, will be all right as soon as the people of this Nation have money issued to them direct from their own Government and not be compelled to go to the exclusive privileged few moneyless bankers who have gathered up vast quantities of debts the people have been compelled to contract, and these moneyless bankers can take these debts of the people to one of your specially selected pawn shops and there deposit only debts of the people. When this is done then your pawn shop will have issued to these moneyless bankers another scrip which is another debt for which the pawn shop government regional bank, has to be paid another interest for all this scrip the Government issues to the bankers; then this scrip can be brought back to the bankers' private banks who had no money and reloaned back to the people at a still higher rate of interest. Mr. President, this is only a deceptive procedure of the European law of debt entailment.

Mr. President, I cannot see what your Congress was doing all this last session (Session of 1914) for the relief of the people. I admit that these pawn shops will help to keep a few bankers from immediate failure because they can get a scrip issued to them on debts and force their depositors to take this scrip even though they had deposited the race sacred gold coin with these bankers. Mr. President, why did you not allow the railroad corporations, cotton growers, wheat and all farm producers, the mining and manufacturing and all productive industries to deposit debts (they all have plenty of them) and have these Government pawn shops issue a like scrip to them that you have to these special moneyless bankers? Were not the railroad corporations as much a part of this Government as these few favored moneyless bankers? Mr. President, I repeat, are not the cotton growers, wheat growers, meat growers, mining corporations and all producing, manufacturing, educational and all industrial organizations as much entitled to protection from this illicit debt holding monopoly of European origin under the Constitution of this United States as a few non-productive banking corporations which must derive all their authority to do business from the same source that do these so-carefully selected banking corporations. Mr. President, I have been taught and have so understood that this was a people's Government, but under this new banking law I find it is only a pawn shop banking Government and that for the very special few.

Do you not realize, Mr. President, that when the intelligent people of this United States who are all mortgaged, then bonded many times and that each separate debt has kept increasing taxes until the people of this Government are going to wake up again as they did on November 3, 1914, when they sent out their subamrine torpedo ballots which knocked out the one hundred and twenty majority of those old and worn out political gold basis pawn shop making hulks into the political sea of "Where Am I At?" Mr. Goldbasis frauds.

These submarine torpedo ballot ships returned to port without a tremor or a disturbed nerve center, and will take time to make a complete finish of all these old frauds of rotten bottomed, whiskey-soaked, specieless basis frauds on November, 1916, who have imposed their most henious of all human crimes upon the ignorant and deceivable masses of the human race ever since government was placed in the hands of the descendants of the school of Aninias who had been lieing for ages to the people to save the reputation of his political party who were rulers of his time and had been for eons of ages, and we still read further on in the scribes of the Kings where Judas Iscariot, the specie basis banker for the society of the Nazarenes, when called on for thousands of specie coins to redeem his promises to pay in coin could not scratch up but thirty pieces. This so enraged the people who held many thousands of his promises to pay in specie, that he ran away from his pursuers and in the race he threw himself upon the rocks and bursted out his fraudulent bowels which raised such an offensive smell as Christian Europe is not now able to purify or suppress, who are the avowed followers of Aninias and his 444th thousandeth son-in-law, Judas Iscar-iot, who was a direct descendant of the third heir of Aninias' ninety-seventh wife of series three as recorded in the always failing specie basis bankers' debt entailing frauds, perpetuated upon all the industrious people of the United States as well as all nations of the earth.

Mr. President, should you keep on with such legislation until the end of your present term of office you may succeed in tearing down all business that there is in this entire Nation with your traditional entailing of debts through your deceptive squaw finaciering. Optimism means an ever increising business.

Your optimism when worked out, Mr. President, is like a neighbor we had once in Illinois, who said in describing the symmetry of a new colt on its arrival, that it had a fine bow to its neck, but that the bow was on the under side of colt's neck.

Mr. President, your financial ledger shows the credit on the opposite column to be talking optimistic financiering by actual mathematics. No number of rhetorically arranged words will change your pessimistic financial legislation.

You should remember, Mr. President, that all pessimistic persons practice whistling when passing or going through a race-graveyard.

The supposition has always been to keep up the pessimistic courage of the whistler until he could get away from the home of the race dead.

The only optimism that will ever win in the financiering of this Nation, Mr. President, will be by Congress issuing money, a full legal tender for all debts, both public and private, direct to the people of the United States without the intervention of any banking corporation whatsover. This is the act of Congress and no other power can make it effective.

The President of the United States who will be elected in 1916, will be ready to sign a bill which will supply the people of this United States of America with money sufficient in quantity to transact all the business of this energetic people with cash and no more bonds or mortgages are to be issued to be sold in Europe or any other country. America is fully able and absolutely secure in establishing her own system of the financing of all her people by her own alread stored or accumulated wealth. This is the optimism that will win in 1916.

Railroad Oppression

It is now, as it has been in all ages, the old homely expression was that, "Every dog has its day." The builders of the magnificent and palatial railroad passenger coaches and trains, with so many conveniences and comforts, are among the greatest benefactors of this race. I have lived and enjoyed many of these comforts. I personally know of all these things I will here write about, for all the railroads and their so vast cost have been built since I became a student of the science of Government.

The railroad companies have done more to educate the people than all the schools and colleges of this Nation. Their instruction has been that of the practical, things that were useful, not only to the railroad owners but to every one who has lived in this age of the civilizing of the American continent by railroad transportation companies.

I have traveled on the railroads of the United States and Canada for the past thirty-five years. I have personally been cognizant of the facts that enter into the development of the vast empire west of the Mississippi River to the Pacific Ocean, both south and north from the Gulf to Alaska, where so much unutilized wealth was literally brought into the very treasure house of all people who were willing to give an equivalent for values received.

The builders of these lines of transportations have never been paid for their money invested, and their time and energy expended in this most laudable of all undertakings to supply the actual needs and wants of mankind.

The present owners of the railroads are not the men and women who furnished either the brain, muscle or money that built these all needful highways of commerce. The right, title and interest to the builders of the railroads has long since been outlawed, and their claims all absorbed and transferred to men and combinations of men, who are neither producers, builders, or actual users of these all necessary means of transportation, which should have ever remained the property of those all optimistic builders.

The only reason why the first owners lost all their investments, labor and genius, their inalienable and inherent right to possess and enjoy, was their own ignorance of the law of money, which they must secure from the people, for the use of the railroads. A railroad cannot run by any system of charity or donation party adjuncts.

Rates for passenger and freight charges must be such as will pay all operating expenses which includes the cost of construction and maintenance. These charges must be met by the users of the railroads.

The reason why the builders and owners of all these railroads lost their investments was because they began to take sides with the non-producers and against the producers and users of the already constructed roads.

The producers who must have a sufficient price for their products to be able to pay the increased railroad rates, were hounded and maligned by a hireling press through the dictation of a few money manipulators in the interest of European-Pagan money theories, which has pauperized all civilizations upon the whole earth. The builders of these railroads not knowing the law, did oppress the people, though ignorantly it was done. So the people retaliated by state legislation in like oppression to the railroad builders and owners. During all this contention and oppressive legislation against the railroad corporations, by the people, the non-producers and users of the roads were maniuplating the finances by legislation both against the people and the owners of the railroads and to the utter amazement of all thoughtful persons the railroad owners took sides with the non-producers and non-users of the railroads against the people. Thus, the present reader can see that the old Chinese statement is a truism in this case. Here is the statement: "A house divided against itself must fall."

A railroad without someone to use it would be as useless as a confirmed saint would be to locate in Satan's biblical domain of endless hell fire. The people and the railroad companies haven't yet learned that the producer, consumer and the transporter are one, and until they do understand this scientific and logical truism the railroads and transportation companies will be oppressing themselves by oppressing the users of the railroads, while these Pagan financiers will own them all.

I traveled on the Union Pacific railroad in Nebraska at the time of the most bitter railroad legislation to oppress the transportation companies, by the people, whose only hope for a market for their vast yields of farm productions could only reach a market over this road and the only then avalaible means of receiving exchange products such as building material, clothing, groceries and fuel was over this same railroad, yet the owners and operators were determined to oppress the producers in every way that their scheming manipulators could devise, and at the same time the people were organizing to retaliate through the legislature in a most effectual way. All that was ever accomplished in this long line of contentions was to allow the non-producing and non-users of the railroads to absorb through a fictitious money system the Union Pacific railroad, and take it away from the owners and builders and at the same time through the same financial system the farmers and producers of Nebraska lost their products and their farms as did all business industries carried on in that State.

This oppressive railroad legislation has been kept up throughout this Nation, until there is now being piled up against every corporation almost daily court judgments for damages, fictitiously sworn to, amounting to thousands and hundred of thousands of dollars. All these decisions are called by a divided race teaching legitimate and lawful judgments against a corporation, in whose interest every citizen has a valid interest, although he or she has not one dollar of individual money invested in the construction or operation of the railroads.

I never owned individually one dollar of stocks or bonds in any railroad or transportation company, yet I have an interest in all of them for I am now and have been sending out and receiving mails from all parts of this continent and Europe. I am sending out and receiving goods and wares from many parts of the world, all of which must be carried by these different transportation companies. I am eligible to travel upon any one of the different lines of transportation with the assurance of all the protection that can be provided for any person who purchases passage on either car, boat, or stage. What more could I ask? Whatever line I select to travel on is mine for the purpose of transportation either for my personal use or that of goods or commodities. In reciting my own case I recite the individual interest of every man, woman and child in this Nation. This being positively true, why should I be a party to oppress or ask these companies to carry either freight or passengers for less than the cost of construction and maintenance. I have been told many times that the railroad companies have and are still asking the people to pay more for the transportation of products than the goods will bring when taken to the markets. This is also true, then, where is the remedy? It surely cannot bring a reduction of freight and passenger fares to break them up or reduce their incomes so they will be compelled to discharge legitimate and needful employees. That will not increase the price of products grown for the markets, neither will it reduce the cost of transportation if all the present railroad corporation owners were legislated out of business and their roads confiscated. Neither will it aid the railroad corporations and transportation companies to discharge their trusted and compentent employees and refuse to carry the products of the producers unless they give the railroad companies all the products will bring in the markets and pay a bonus besides, which has been done many times in different parts of the United States. I have now recited the facts as they have existed for almost a half century and the conditions are no better now than they were at the commencement of this conflict by legislative oppression of the railroads and a solution will never be reached by continuing these same tactics.

A half a century has been spent in the legislative halls and the courts of the States and Nation, at a cost of millions of dollars in money, which is all yet to be paid. This vast expense is included in the appalling bonded and mortgaged indebtedness now held against the railroads and the mortgaged and bonded indebtedness held against the Nation, States and all productive interests.

I now shall talk to the railroad managers, operators and owners. Do you desire an amicable settlement of all this useless and unecessary contentions and the further increase of your indebtedness which is now almost unbearable? Every sane woman and man will say, "Come, let us reason together." This is the time for the thinkers to act. I shall talk to the railroad interests as a court of equity who are now to sit in judgment upon the acts and precedure of all railroad managers and owners who have preceded you, and the results, acts and decisions which are all before you, and the court decrees entered against you. (Here let me say to all users and consumers that every judgment entered against the transportation companies, is a judgment against you, which you must pay through an increase of fares and freight rates.) From this long conflict there has only been one result which was a special benefit to the non-user and owner of the railroads who are the manipulators of that mythical money system, who are able to draw more interest on increased loans to postpone the payment of legislative and court expenses. To the people let me say that every judgment you have secured against the railroads and transportation corporations is only a decree against ourselves. All this fifty years of conflict has enabled the Pagan money coin basis advocates and their co-workers to fatten at the expense of the deluded railroad owners and builders whom they have used as tools to deceive and extort from the users and consumers all the increased productions of this ever-producing people. All the railroad owners, builders, the people, the users and the consumers have left, is a mortgaged and bonded debt of over $50,000,000,000, yet to be paid with an annual interest of over $3,000,000,000, both principal and interest to be paid out of the products of all the people who must use these railroads and transportation companies to market their productions. (When I speak of railroads I include street car systems as well as the steam roads.)

There are many advocates of Government ownership who honestly think that the government could run them at less cost and expense to the people. Suppose we grant that this is true. Where will we go for the facts? Let us be honest in our statements and present only the facts in the points at issue, and the court of equity will render its judgment on the fact established by the history of all nations, States, cities, and all other subdivisions.

The record is plain and undisputed that the Government of the United States, is and has been bonded ever since its organization, showing conclusively that there has never yet been an administration, except that of John Quincy Adams, which was able to prove its business competency.

Every State and Territory of this mighty Republic is today bonded and mortgaged to this same mythical coin basis combine that owns the bonds which control the railroads and absorb the productions of the people. Every County in all this vast territory of States is bonded and rebonded to this same myth. Every school district is plastered all over with bonds, the homes of all the people are mortgaged and bonded to this mythical gold basis.

I will recite the conditions as I find them under public administration. These are the facts: Every child of school age in this entire Nation sleeps in a mortgaged home at night and recites its lessons in a bonded school house in the daylight.

Every Congressman and Senator who goes to Washington, D. C., to represent the people leaves a bonded State to occupy a seat in the capitol which is bonded, thus our national laws are continually being enacted to increase the debts of the people. Every judge who presides in any court of this Nation, must render his decision in a bonded court house. Every man, woman and child that rides upon a street car, travels in a car and over a road is bonded.

Every person who walks either upon a public highway, or on a village or city street, must travel upon a bonded road.

Every State legislature must sit in a bonded State house to make more laws to increase the taxes upon the people of each State which is the result at the assembling of every State legislature.

The public, the people, are the creators of all these debts and not the corporations. The corporations were compelled to go in debt to do business under the laws enacted by the public—the people.

All must admit the facts as they appear by the official records kept by the officers of the law enacting representatives elected by the people. To keep up this game of high financiering, termed the watering of stocks, the officers of this Government have been hoodwinking the people by the Government's prosecuting officers of some of the railroad companies as though they were the only parties who had been watering stocks. What has the Congress of the United States been doing but watering gold coin stock by passing special privilege laws, allowing the bankers to issue thousands of dollars in promises to pay in gold coin, when the Government neither had gold coin nor was the gold coin in existence. The Government records will show that there is not gold enough in the United States now to pay the interest upon the gold bonds and mortgages authorized and endorsed by Congressional enactment. I here say to the people of the United States, by the recorded facts, that the wildest scheme of railroad stock watering ever entered into by any railroad company is mere child's play as compared to the billions of promises to pay in gold coin, issued, authorized and endorsed by the different acts of Congress and signed by the chief executives of this Nation.

Do not think that I am in favor of stock watering of the railroads or any other corporation. I only want to show you that the different governmental acts which are empowered by the people through the Constitution of the United States, and the different State Constitutions, municipal corporations and other forms of government which have issued bonds and mortgages payable in gold coin, are the principals and the guilty conspirators in this gold coin stock-watering in stead of the railroad corporations who were only following suit in the European-Pagan devil-fish, gold gambling schemes, copied from European laws and fostered upon the American people through the legislative acts of this Government.

I will say that the Government's prosecution of railroad officials, and the shyster pretending appointment of commissions to examine into the issuing of watered stocks of the railroad companies, is nothing but a flim-flam pretense to arouse this long smouldering but not extinguished legal and legislative conflict which can never settle and adjust this all over-powering money question. There is not a city in this Nation but what has watered the actual values of all property therein to three and five times their true value for the purpose of increasing the bonded indebtedness on said cities and these city bonds are drawn to be paid in gold coin when all cities are absolutely non-producers of gold or any other products of any practical value. Cities are only aggregations of peoples who are extensive users and consumers of the productions of the producers.

The railroad managers, owners and operators have been duped and then deserted by the non-producers and users who were the principal instigators of all this system of stock watering, and they have entered into a combination with the legislative and administrative office holders, combined with certain gold coin watered promises to pay which they can never complete, to destroy all railroad stocks regardless of the interest and utility of this all-necessary means of transportation.

This combination has secured the passage of a bastard banking law where by the few who have entered into this corporation, are privileged to go and take their watered securities and have the Government issue to them more watered script to circulate instead of money, which compels the railroad companies and all other business undertakings, as producers of cotton, wheat, corn, sugar, meats, dairy products, and all the minerals, oils and lumber producers, except the isolate and insignificant gold mining, to borrow this watering combination's already hundreds of times watered scrip, at an exhorbitant rate of interest, to enable the railroads to keep their trains moving and pay running expenses. Think of such a set of governmental officials running a railroad or any other productive industries at a less cost than the owners and builders of these industries. It is an assertion without a fact to support or justify the conclusions. If the owners and builders of any of the different system of constructive industry cannot successfully operate them it will be useless to put them into the hands of inexperienced office holders who are and have been governed and controlled by an irresponsible, non-producing gang of gold coin scrip waterers.

Now, for the final solution of this all- disturbed industrial question. Let there be an agreement entered into between the producers, transporters and consumers who are one in all things. There will be only a mere handful of these non-producing gold coin watering scrip and stock jubbers left, who will be utterly powerless, they being only the non-essentials in government. Then this will be in fact a people's government of the people, by the people, and for the people. Elect to Congress and the Senate of the United States only such men and women as will represent the people.

Then bring the following bill before this legally and lawfully constituted Congress:

To issue not less than two billion ($2,000,000,000) dollars of full legal tender money to relieve the stricken and withering industries of this Nation. The first provision must be to furnish employment to the unemployed by building needed improvements. Then loan to the railroad corporations and all legitimate industries, builders and producers direct from the Government. This national money at a rate of interest not to exceed 3 per cent. per annum on long time securities. This 3 per cent. to be paid into the Treasury of the United States and used to pay running expenses of the general Government. This will immediately bring the greatest prosperity to all the people of the United States ever enjoyed by any people upon this earth.

This is the only practical solution of this money question. All that has to be done is for the railroad owners, builders and operators to take the initiative on this basis and 95 per cent. of the American people will support and sustain this Constitutional procedure who are the legal authors and owners of their own system of government and are wholly competent to own and manage their own money independent of all the already debt and bond cursed nations of Europe.

The People's Congress of the United States in Session

The Issuing of $2,000,000,000 of Full Legal Tender Money.

The Employment of Every Unemployed Man and Woman in the Nation, Under the Direction of Military Regulations.

Mr. President, and the gentleman Senators and Represetnatives of the people of this United States of America in joint session assembled, under our Republican form of Government, to hear, consider and determine the inherent and inalienable right of this American people, to institute, provide, establish, make, stamp, coin, print, register, account for, pay out and receive back again and again, into their own treasuries their legally and lawfully decreed money exclusively for this entire people from the occupant of the White House to the humblest citizen of this Republic, as well as the laborer, artisan, merchant, representative or visiting foreigner, of any and all classified governments or organized or unorganized peoples upon this whole earth, and whomsoever may come within the legal limits of our waters and landed domain of our Nation.

Mr. President, this privileged question upon which I now speak, in short and simple language, means this, that the people of this United States are here in a legally and lawfully constituted government, known, recognized and determined to be the Congress of this United States of America by their adoption of a Constitution which has delegated to their Congressmen, Senators and President the unrestricted power "to coin money and regulate the value thereof." This power of Congress has never been carried out in full in the interest of all the people, who are the makers, builders, providers, sustainers and defenders of this, their constitution.

Mr. President, every crime commited since the moment after the adoption of this Constitution by governmental officers, banking corporations, slave owning despots, railroad, mineral, fuel and food trusts, are directly traceable to our Congressional enactments favoring some specially incorporated banking trust, with the exclusive privilege of compelling the people of this Nation to all pay tribute to this always deceptive coin basis myth and fraud.

Mr. President, this is not all, there is yet the chief point to be made clear to this Congress which is this, that the Government has always been through its National privileged office holding fraternity who have been the chief participants in all these extortions, bank failures, bankruptcies, panics, and wars, both civil and foreign, which are all only crimes committed through Congressional monetary manipulations, always favoring the coin basis myth, non-producing few, and against the helpless millions of uninformed people in your monetary, financial fraud legislation, yet they are the producers, builders and sustainers of our national life.

Mr. President, I will here call your attention briefly to some of the high crime tragedies which have taken place in my day of personal memory which are the assassinations of Presidents Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley, each of these deeds were committed through and on account of this class legislation in favor of the few money manipulators and against the strict mandates of the Constitution which is for all the people, which reads as follows: ,'To coin money and regulate the value thereof.'' This indictment the people of this nation are bringing before this national Congress for its final settlement, carries upon the written pages of history the rise of the first dynasty of China who lost their control of their government by and through this same special privileged few at the expense of the many and still this same battle goes on there, in that oldest government by record upon the face of the earth.

Mr. President, these same governmental acts, were repeated by the Lost Atlanton office holding and ruling power of that long ago sumerged continent. I now call your attention to the history of the centuries of the Egyptian few governmental interest exacting oligarchical despots who held that mighty people as their interest-paying slaves until that civilization withered in poverty and want, in one of the most productive countries the sun ever shown upon. Out of this Egyptian wreckage came the Jewish civilization with all its wonderful fund of facts and figures through tradition. She, like all governments preceding her, copied the financial system that had been the cause of the overthrow of all nations prior to their time and national existence. They too, with all their religious fervor and claims of a chosen people closed out their highest attainments by robbing the millions of producers and builders through an interest-bearing debt which never was paid, of that all-productive Babylonian civilization. Co-existing with Jewish nations was that Greek civilization which outshines all others in elegance, luster and worth in their unequalled attainments in their philosophy of mental and bodily expression, which formed the basis for their incalculable achievements in the then unexplored fields in science, architecture, oratory, music and art. They, too, Mr. President, engrafted into their national laws this same interest-bearing bonding system in favor of the very few who lawfully and legally robbed their producing and consuming millions just as the United States Congess has been doing through a fictitious coin basis for the few, to control and absorb through European debt entailment the productions of this millions of supposedly free Ameircan citizens.

Rome was the outgrowth of the Greek and Babylonian wreckage, even more cosmopolitan and energetic than either, or, in fact, all civilization preceding them, copied the Babylonian laws which allowed high rates of interest to the few who controlled by law the issue of all the money of the nation as well as the exclusive privilege of drawing from 20 per cent. to as high as 60 per cent. interest for the loan of seed grains to the farmers in planting season to maturity of the crop. Thus, you will learn that the early boasted freedom of the people of the Roman Republic was literally doomed by this same ever gnawing of interest-bearing cancer, mortgage and bonded debt held by the few through special privileged law against the many who are by this same statute law compelled to borrow this money of these special privileged few to pay all their debts and obligations of any and all character, in all transactions, in our commercial exchanges. Money was made so scarce by the legally constituted owners of it, that Rome never was able during the last six hundred years of her national existence to pay any of her bonded indebtedness,—all she ever could do, was to confiscate the products of the producers and use them to pay interest upon her accumulated debts until the entire productions of that vast empire were levied upon by governmental officials, to satisfy the usurers' special privilege law, in the interest of the few who were allowed to control the issue of all the money of the Empire.

History shows that the first bonded debt ever put upon the City of Rome, which was for the building of the Acqueducts, never was paid,—only refunded and increased at each new issue, just as our present system of debt bonding is carried on today in this so-called free government of the people of these United States of America.

Mr. President, I say to you, sir, that it is high time that the producers, consumers and transportters of this Nation be heard in these halls of legislation in their constitutional right to issue, control, and participate in all the benefits derived from all money, first put into circulation among all this people, which is the only logical conclusion to be reached as the purpose and intent as expressed in the Constitution which distinctly says that Congress shall have the power "To coin money and regulate the value thereof." The acts of Congress are only voicing the decrees of the whole people of this Nation.

I now call the attention of this Congress to these stubborn facts as they appear upon the records of this nation. That at the inception of our National life, that the then acting Congress began to copy their laws for the issue of money direct from the now debt-cursed nations of Europe, from which they had just immigrated or been exiled and had ended an eight years of devastating wars, under the plea of being taxed with unbearable burdens, without representation in the halls of legislation. Their plea was sustained and the Colonies were free to establish their own independent government which they did in all things except to issue their own money, this being the highest, most necessary and absolutely essential prerogative of every independent government. I here make the so oft-repeated statement, "That the chief stone (money) in the structure of the building (Government) was rejected by the builders."

Mr. President, this Congress can readily see that after nearly a century and a half of our national existence, that it is necessary for the preservation of this Republic and its institutions, that the people of this Nation shall own, issue, use and safeguard all their money of account, and if there are to be any benefits derived from loaning of this people's money, that all such receipts from any source, shall be recovered into the national treasury and used to pay current expenses of the administration of the Nation's business in all necessary transactions requiring the Government either to pay out or receive money. This will be done by this people's Congress who have been searching through the multiplicity of rubbish, in the shape of enactments and repeals of the many contradictory laws by the different assemblies since the year of 1792 to 1915 inclusive, known as the laws of the United States on Coinage and the issuing of Paper Money. To make clear and conclusive my former statement that it was through the congressional enactments that laid the foundation for all our wars since we became a separate and distinct Nation, I now proceed to make proof. The Civil War was the culmination of a long line of laws enacted by different congressional assemblies in which the Government of the United States was always a partner in the traffic in the slave trade and their subjugation, by their ownership, by citizens in the United States that these human slaves were compelled to work, for their masters, by chattel enacted laws within and upon American soil, in and by virtue of the acts of our National Congress. Mr. President, this being the fact, can you not see how it has been possible for Congress after Congress elected by and from this same people, to continue to pass such monetary legislation as would compel one portion of the citizenship of this Nation to be taxed to support the non-producing few under your flim-flam pretext—called a coin basis, for the redemption of a paper currency based upon coin that never existed? It is as false a statement in true logic as that one written in the Jewish Bible which says: "Slaves, obey your masters," this being claimed by that slave holding oligarchy which dominated the Congress of the United States from 1792 to 1861 under the same flim-flam pretext that Ezekiel had received that all-sweeping statement "Slaves, obey your masters" from that Jewish unseen God as a divine command. Slavery must be upheld by Congressional enactment, and that the slave owner in his divine right by Biblical writ must be sustained by the whole people of this Government, and aided by this Nation in keeping the slaves subdued, and compelled to work for their masters without recompense or hope of reward. That Hoary-Eyed Monster who was reported to have said that kings rule by divine right is taken from the same book of legendary laws that Congress has been consulting when it passed its diabolical coin basis bonding schemes which had stifled and is now throttling every industrial enterprise in this Nation. The Congress of the United States was in league with the non-producing combine of all Europe who for all centuries of their national existence have flimflammed the producers and consumers with this same illogical and always contradictory coin basis, through which the non-producing few have absorbed the earnings of the hundreds of millions of producers in times of peace and in times of war have used their producing and consuming millions for food for the cannon's maw. The rich and the poor, the priest and the sinner, the believer and the unbeliever, the saved and the damned, have and are being blown into anybody's and everybody's eternity by shot and shell paid for from their own earnings, made by their own brain, brawn, muscle and energy, then burried in heaps and gullies and burned with the trash of the earth. All for the lack of the Government's issuing a sufficient amount of money to keep them employed in building, and providing for children and families in homes of plenty and comfort.

Oh, how long will this American people look on this tragic theater,—traffic and slaughter in human objectifications, of the priceless brain, flesh and bone in body form, now going on in all Europe, Asia and Africa, and if you please, at our very door, just across the border in creed-taught, robbed Mexico are warring bands headed by nomad and doomed degenerates, the descendants of that once industrious, wealth-producing, home-building and happy Peruvian nation of people which sustained a civilization that lasted for over a thousand years in an age prior to the founding of the Babylonian Empire or the rise and fall of the Greecian and Jewish civilizations and their tragic dissolution in socialistic government of impracticabilities adopted from the teachings of the ancient Chinese which had failed long before the appearance of Tayo and the Confucian Sage began his teaching of the pholosophy of national industrial development to save the wreckage wrought through their socialistic teaching in government, producing the hordes of idle, roving bands, plundering, debauching and murdering those who were then producing and building wherever found.

The bill I now bring before this people's Congress for their immediate adoption as their expressed statutory law, is to expressly provide for the employment of every unemployed man, woman and child who now resides under the protection of the flag of our Nation, at a reasonable wage compensation. To employ this vast army of the unemployed as now reckoned from three to four million of human citizens and producers, I herewith present this bill which provides for the immediate issue of $2,000,000,000 of full legal tender paper money, which will be in excess of all other money now circulating or held as reserves throughout all this Nation. The issuing of this money is not for donations or charity either. The unemployed as a reasoning citizenship, are not asking for charity; they are only asking for that inherent right which the founders of this Republic set forth in their declaration of purposes which reads as follows: "That all men, women and children, are created free and equal with certain inalienable rights among which are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness.'' No people upon the face of this whole earth have ever been so truly and sincerely law obeying as the people of the United States of America, and none have ever equalled them in their power to produce. And all that this bill carries with it, is the issuing of the money to pay for labor when performed. This bill now being made the law of the land, I now offer the second bill and ask its immediate passage by this Congress of the people, which provides for the improvement of the entire Mississippi River and all tributary rivers and streams flowing into it from both East and West from the Dominion of Canada on the North to the Gulf of Mexico on the South.

Improvement of the Mississippi River

The provisions in this bill provide for the deepening and straightening of the channel of the Mississippi River to prohibit the overflow of its waters, and the drainage of millions of acres of land now under water by the accumulations of silt and sand in the beds of these streams. This bill further provides for the construction of storage basins or lakes in a systematic chain from the Dakotas on the North, through Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas, and all lands East from the Rocky Mountains drained through the Mississippi River and its tributaries; and a like provision will be made for all the overflow waters of all rivers and streams flowing into the Mississippi River from the East through Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana, and all lands drained through the Mississippi River from the East and its tributaries.

This bill will provide for the employment under the supervision of the United States of a number of corps of the practical and most competent engineers and surveyors the United States or any other government has ever employed, to prepare plans, specifications and construct this most gigantic wealth producing system of National drainage, transportation canals, storage of overflow waters and electric power development.

Mr. President, it is the intent, purpose and the direct object of this bill to provide for the legitimate, profitable and productive employment of as many able-bodied men and a like number of women to build up this Nation and beautify it, as Germany, France and England combined have now arrayed in deadly conflict to murder one another and destroy the already accumulated wealth sufficient to enable every inhabitant of all these nations who are homeless and in want through governmental direction, to produce, build, own and maintain their own homes in these respective nations.

I now speak for the people of this United States and voice the openly avowed expression of every business man and woman of this entire Republic when I say, It is American to provide the ways and means for the legitimate, profitable and productive employment of all the people of this nation. And our surest and only impregnable defense now and for all time to come is in our always being provided with an ever-increasing, growing and expanding industrial and commercial development. This can only be accomplished by this Government providing its own money as a medium of exchange without bonds and without interest from this people. This money once being earned through labor performed or by the furnishing of materials, goods, wares or commodities of any name or nature, belongs to the whole people by right of purchase and delivery for value received, which is the law of just compensation, and must ever remain in their hands or accessible for the sole, legitimate and only use for which money was called into existence or can be used. Money has but one office, one power and one authority—that is its legal or lawful power to pay debt after the contract has been agreed to, by delivery and receipt. The results to be obtained and the benefits to be received from the performance of the work to be provided when this bill is enacted and becomes a statutory decree of the Congress of the United States, are manifold.

It will provide for a ship canal from the Lakes on the North to the Gulf of Mexico on the South, near midway between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans where sea-going vessels can load and unload, in this most productive soil of this Nation; and where will be more than 200,000,000 of people resident home-owners, producing an abundance of all the necessaries of life, and a surplus to provide for a hundred million more people for export which will furnish us all the luxuries grown in other climates and countries sufficient to supply every inhabitant with every luxury and comfort that this people may wish or desire. It will make the channel of the great Mississippi River far more valuable for practical use to the people of this entire Nation than either their so valuable coast frontage on the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans which are actual wealth to this commercial people of a far greater value than is posesssed by any other nation today upon the face of the earth.

The building of this new deep waterway through the entire length of the United States from North to South within the inside of our own National domain will be a greater National defense for the United States of America than to own a fleet of warships equal to the combined fleet now possessed by England and Germany, in addition to what we already possess.

Besides the now idle and unused rich and productive lands which will be added to the Nation's productive resources will be greater by far than that now owned by France and Germany combined.

The electric power which will be developed as the natural results of this vast improvement will furnish a manufacturing power far in excess of that now used by all Germany and at half the cost of the power used in that so successful nation in her manufacturing industries. No nation upon the earth would or could have anything to say but words of commendation and cheer. Our intelligent, progressive and most friendly neighbor, Canada, on the North, could only send us the most cordial and friendly greetings as every stroke made and every shovel of earth removed for deeping the rivers' channels would add to the values of their vast wheat area of land midway between the two great oceans, who can secure passage for their export wheat and other products to be loaded on ocean going ships at their border which would almost float with their own weight to the Gulf of Mexico. This nation will then become the producing, manufacturing and exporting nation for the world. We have the raw material and we would be able to convert our own products into marketable wares at less expense than any other people upon the earth. We possess all the material necessary for supplying every want in making all this improvement, and our ability to do it will never be questioned.

It would require the continuous employment for many years of not less than 50,000 men to manufacture the concrete to be used and 150,000 men to excavate and cement the basins and channels through which the water is to be controlled. The iron and steel required for the reinforcing of all bridges, culverts, siphon conducts over elevations, under streams or through tunnels, would require the labor of 50,000 men, and another 50,000 men in the mining and transporting of the ores from the mines to the blasting, refining and rolling mills, and thence to places where they are to be used. Preceding all these will be 50,000 men, grading and paving highways of the most permanent and durable material known to the science of road-building, over which this material will be transported. It would require the doubling of all the capacity of all railroad facilities now constructed and in operation in the entire Mississippi Valley basin within less than two years from the passage of this bill, and all continental railroad lines crossing the Mississippi Valley or extending to the Mississippi River from East or West would be compelled to double track every road now in operation to accommodate the increased business that would be required of them.

The constructive work for storage basins and lakes would begin in the North providing for all overflow waters of all streams which feed the Mississippi River, conducting it South and West through the arid lands of Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, and all streams from the East as the Illinois, Wabash, and Ohio, the waters of these streams not required for use on the Eastern slope of the Mississippi Valley will be conducted over the channel of the Mississippi River to the West Side, where every cubic foot of overflow water will be used for manufacturing and irrigating purposes.

Immediately following the completion of the first storage basins, would be inaugurated a system of Intense Farming which would require the labor of from 500 to 1,000 where one person is now employed in all this vast country from the Dakotas through to Northern, Central and Western Texas to the Gulf. This would quadruple our present corn production, treble our present wheat, oats and rye production in these States. It would increase the sugar-beet industry a thousand-fold. It would increase the cotton to five times its present capacity. It would extend the sugar cane plantations to ten times their present production. It would increase the rice production to twenty times its present out-put. It would make practically a new industry, that of growing of peacan nuts, one of the most nourishing foods for man grown in America which would furnish employment for thousands of people in growing, harvesting and marketing, which would add millions of dollars of wealth to that vast stretch of country in which they can profitably be grown, Texas leading all other States.

These different industries which I have just mentioned are only some of the leading profitable productions. Many more of equal importance, such as fruits, dairying, vegetable gardening, stock-raising, would all increase in the same proportion I have given to the cereals, and now follows the climax for employment of labor, which would be the manufacturing. All our cotton can be manufactured at home, and much of it within sight of the fields in which it is grown and picked. All our sugar can be manufactured at home by our own citizenship, which would supply every pound that will be needed for all our people and an excess to be exported to other countries, and this system of electrical power development could be made so reasonable in actual cost that the manufacturing of glass will become one of the leading industries of this American people, for we have the material. We will produce the power, all that is needed, is to have the waterpower harnessed and controlled in the North, which could be used over again and again as it flows South on its way to the Gulf, adding to its wealth producing capacity in an increasing ration to such a degree as to make the actual cost of power to the whole of manufacturing and irrigation free to the consumers of it. The abundance in the ever continuous supply of all the necessaries for the life, comfort and happiness of all our people, that the cost of living would be reduced to the minimum.

The one industry of the manufacturing of glass for building purposes alone would be an ever-increasing ,wealth producing production that would keep thousands of our citizens continually employed in this industry. Think of the idea of this great people of the United States with all we possess and know, to be dependent upon Germany or any other nation for to supply us with this most necessary staple building material, or any other product, when we have the raw material already at hand by shaping, separating, reducing, weaving and manufacturing into foods and things of utility The building material of this new civilization will be concrete, steel and glass, for permanency, durability and surety to business, health and life. The production of glass at a reasonable cost which can be made cheaper than wood, brick or stone would usher in a new power for the supplying of vegetable and cirtous foods at prices within the reach of all people, by such an increase of greenhouse gardening that want of food for the sustenance, comfort and happiness of man would never come to the people of this Republic.

This bill will provide for the control of this construction to be under the strict army regulations, and that the skill and efficiency of the engineering department of the war department be used in all this so vast field of development work.

The regulations made and enforced by government authority will not allow any resorts for lounging in idlesness of either men or women who drink to drunkenness, debauching both mind and body which incapacitates them for efficiency in any vocation in which they may pretend to pursue.

Instead of the usual unwholesome places for resorts, that there be permitted and encouraged a practical and thorough system of education (night courses where men and women may attend as well as children) that will be scientific, wholesome and practical aids in the many different lines of work carried on by them as builders of this entire system, as well as a complete scientific training in scientific and demonstrable values to accrue to all by a thorough understanding of Intense Farming and the sure rewards to those men and women who engage in this most independent and lasting industry. I would further permit and encourage those competent to build entertainment halls and theaters for entertainments, recreation and amusement. And that there be a systematic arrangement by the engineers in charge to lay out parks, drive ways, lawns and playgrounds for the people around or adjoining each storage basin or lake connecting them with the leading public highways.

Mr. President, these provisions being carried out, would relieve the over-crowded and densely populated districts in many of our large cities, which are inhabited by many idle, profligate people who are a charge upon cities, societies, counties and States at a constantly increasing taxation of the people who are by law compelled to provide for their maintenance.

There will be a provision in this bill that all citizens and peoples residing in the United States who are not self-supporting must find employment elsewhere or willingly go to work upon these national improvements or be drafted into this service of the Nation, and that all begging, by individuals, for themselves or by friends, relatives or societies be strictly prohibited by law and enforced. The wages to be paid, in all departments to be fixed at a reasonable wage compensation and that no excessive wages be paid in any department of this constructive work, and that all awards that are made in any department by increase of wages for efficiensy in earning capacity, must be kept slightly below the ruling wages paid throughout the Nation for like or similar employment. So that when the labor of the United States is all employed and the Government is in need of more laborers at Government wage scales, that the emigration embargo be raised admitting enough foreign laborers to supply the requirements to prosecute the work to be done, and no more. This will regulate the supply and demand for all departments of industry throughout the entire Nation and will completely do away with this so long-drawn-out contentions and claims of underpaid labor and vice verce.

The law that is the most just and beneficial to both employee and employer is a reasonable wage and continuous employment, instead of exorbintant wages for a few and no employment for the many.

It is the purpose of all the provisions of this enactment to so direct the employment of unemployed labor to prepare all laborers in the Nation to become self-sustaining and be able to do business for themselves as fast as possible, so as to better provide for their own individual homes which will make them independent and give room for others less able to provide labor or direct a business of their own. The home conditions, surroundings and influences of all men and women while in the employ of the Government should be strictly business, in all things that would be conducive to a better citizenship, individual home builders and owners, which will surely fit the Nation's citizenship to direct the affairs of the Nation in the interest of the whole people of the Nation; in all things that will aid in bringing about such conditions as will produce a greater amount of wealth, health and happiness for each and every individual and the whole people of this Republic.

Coast Patrol by Warships

I would maintain all the warships we now have and add more possessing every improvement as they are invented and tested, and keep every ship in readiness for active coast patrol for our commercial and National safety to our ever-increasing export and import exchanges. This will be necessary at least until we have paid all our legally contracted debts which have been sold to and purchased by foreign corporations and citizens of foreign nations with the direct and implied endorsement and surety through out national Congressional enactments providing through statutory law that all these debts will be paid in gold coin, which now amounts to many billions of dollars, all interest bearing and payable in like gold coin, a metal, which the Nation and each and every citizen and organization all together within this Nation did not possess then nor now. Were it possible for the Government to collect every pennyweight of gold in this entire Nation now, it all being totaled, would not pay one year's interest on the bonded and mortgaged indebtedness of the American people of the United States now in the hands of the second and third party, without a word of protest from the Congress of this Nation that this unheard of in all the history of nations of over inflation of debts transferable into the possession of a second party in good faith for a valuable consideration holds this Nation, the people, as a whole for the payment of all these debts as stipulated and set forth in every mortgage and bond contract now owned by an undisputed title by people who are not citizens of this Nation.

Any one of these foreign nations whose citizens now hold indebtedness against the United States or any of its subdivisions or citizens thereof; or all of them could form an alliance and demand payment of all these debts and a failure of our government to comply with their demand, could entirely blockade every port in our Nation, then take possession of the revenues until such time as all these debts were paid, which never could be paid under our present Congressional enactments from the supply of gold now in existence or in any future supply by any suppositional speculative reckoning, under all present processes for producing gold metal which they must have before gold can become coined into money. The bonds and mortgages now owned by foreigners are against corporations of many names and character, including school bonds and mortgages, municipalities, counties, States, and our National government.

I have here just stated the accepted and many times enforced international law procedure for the collecting of debts by a Nation on its citizens failing to pay to another Nation or its citizens the money as specified in the contract.

Mr. President, it is now an opportune moment for this people's congress to at once provide a money system of their own. First, for the reason that our Nation as a people are in an absolute want of money to pay our current expenses, and that the Nations of Europe who have heretofore been purchasing our securities are as deeply engulfed in debts as we are and some of them more in need of current money than we are, which heretofore were seeking our securities for investment, are now not able to purchase any more bonds or mortgages, but have demanded that our Government pay back to their people hundreds of millions of dollars in gold coin, for securities held against the people of the United States, which our Government was utterly unable to pay and the only way that our Nation could for the time being avert the most disastrous finacial panic ever brought upon this Republic, was for our Government to close the New York Stock Exchange and prevail on England to close her exchange in London to save the bankruptcy of the Nations of the world. Every nation in Europe is on the inevitable brink of a financial gold coin bankruptcy, and should their war not close soon, the United States will again be demanded to furnish the gold coin which is utterly impossible, which will then draw us into this whirlpool of debt devoured nations from which we have no escape, under the present financial system and laws regulating the issuing of money now upon our statute books, and second, with all these facts and the law before us and the so long a trial without opposition of all nations upon the face of the earth which has lasted for more than five centuries in continuous succession, and at all stages and periods during all these centuries, gold coin never was in sufficient quantities to keep any one Nation out of debt during times of peace and has always failed the people and Governments to furnish the means to supply the people or government to defend themselves in times of war, therefore our only alternative and means of solvency for our nation and the people is to immediately issue our own money sufficient to put into full operation every industry and productive resource of this our already the greatest aggregated accumulation of wealth of any single nation on the earth and with an unlimited supply from which to draw all things now needed by these stricken nations to which we are indebted, who will accept products for the gold coin in satisfaction which we have not, neither can we produce for them, in their now dire distress to preserve their national existence.

Financial Centers of the World Will Be Chicago and New Orleans

Mr. President, by the passage of the laws I have in these pages described and explianed will make ample provision by and through a proper application to enable the people of these United States of America to discharge and pay every debt they now owe to all foreign people, without ever issuing another bond to be sold to any one outside of our own people, by paying each separate obligation before or at the time of its maturity. And at the end of the next thirty years the great Mississippi River Valley and Gulf of Mexico regions can be easily reckoned on being amply able to provide for a population of 100,000,000 of industrious, healthy, wealthy, happy, home-owning and self-sustaining American citizens. While the Atlantic and Pacific states, with the inter-mountain States with their plains and valleys, having received their full share of improvements as has been outlined for the Mississippi Valley regions, will be amply able to support and care for a like population of 100,000,000 resident, home-owning American citizens, and the Nation and her entire people out of debt.

And, by the passage of the law exempting from all taxation the resident home of every mother who has borne a child or children as long as she holds the title in her own name and resides thereon, will place the United States of America in the front rank of all governments that ever floated a flag proclaiming its achievements for the upbuilding of the human race. This will usher in the so long hoped for age of industrial peace, national efficiency, making it possible for the establishing of a sure and safe international adjustment of all differences so as to establish the peace of the whole world.

No one ever objects to the thing they understand, is a truism and a fact. The first objection that has been offered is that it will make Chicago and New Orleans the two leading cities in the Nattion, and St. Louis the third, St. Paul, Minnesota, and Houston, Texas, fourth in importance, with Omaha, Nebraska, Peoria, Illinois, Kansas City, Mo., Memphis, Tennessee, San Antonio, Texas, in the fifth, with a city in Wisconsin, one in Iowa, which has the location for a commercial city containing a population numbering to the hundreds of thousands. This improvement will necessitate the building of many more large and prosperous cities throughout all these States, the dense population will converge at the centers of trade and commerce and the financial center of the world will be directed from Chicago and New Orleans. New York City will remain the metropolis of the East Atlantic States and the financial center with an increasing importance, and all other cities on the East Atlantic growing and expanding in equal proportion to accommodate the demands of an ever-increasing business and population.

The Pacific States and Inter-Mountain States are just beginning on their most wonderful career of permanent development which will have no limits for the coming century. The commercial centers of the North Pacific will be Seattle, Washington, leading as the financial center, Portland, Oregon, second. San Francisco for Northern California, Los Angeles for Southern California, and with SanDiego holding an important place in the export and import commercial world. The greatest centers of the new civilization will be where farming, manufacturing and shipping converges at the least expense to the three so-called factors entering into all commercial life, which are the producers, transporters and consumers. So that the logical conclusion will be conceded without debate or further waiting to improve the bed of the Mississipi River by extending it to Chicago, connecting it with the Great Lakes on the North with its branch to St. Paul, and deepening its channel at New Orleans from 16 to 25 feet, will form this Nation's chief, most profitable and lasting improvement and development ever consummated by any people ever upon the earth.

Mr. President, in this review of the only practical solution yet offered to adequately provide for the employment of all the unemployed of this Nation for the coming centuries, I ask you to compare the provisions herein outlined to those rules and methods which Cheops invoked when he drafted 100,000 men of the unemployed of that age, then worked them under the lash for thirty years to build the first Pyramid of Egypt, without pay and when one division of laborers were worn out from the excessive toil, another crew was drafted and ready to take their places. Is not that what the nations of earth are doing in war today? The building of the great Chinese Wall around China, the construction of the Jewish Temples, and the building of the Floating Gardens and the Hanging Walls of Babylon were all performed by drafted and unpaid laborers, and all these toilers were the sons of homeless mothers in all these nations.

The rules of war today are the same rules established by the savage tribes of the early primitive man, that is: they are fighting without a compensation or any hope of reward. All nations have destroyed in battle their homes, no difference what has been their form of government or their religious beliefs and teachings. Mr. President, are we in this so progressive Republic of the twentieth century to wind up our Nation thus with so many promising and assuring declarations, that freedom would be established and maintained on this American continent where all men and women were to be forever free to think, to talk, to teach, to write and to publish, their ideas and reside in their own homes in absolute security by this government, for all the ages to come. To accomplish this is the desire of us all. The passage of these bills will insure the fulfilling of the words of the declaration of freedom. Let us pass these bills unnanimously and return to our home building with the assurance of our government through this Congress that there shall be employment provided for all our people who are desirous of our national perpetuity, knowing as we all do that we now have room for millions more and by the provisions of these bills we as a nation will make room for hundreds of millions more, who are now knocking continually at our doors, pleadingly asking to be admitted into our union of homes and national freedom. Statesmen, philanthropists, rulers and officers of this Government, let us all think only those thoughts that will build this Nation into a reality in the one unfailing realization that when our people are the possessors of their own homes, forever free from all taxations, that the combined world, of Europe, Asia and Africa, would never think of attempting to dislodge such a fortified people as we will then be, but would be coming under a flag of truce, bearing the olive branch of endearing and lasting peace, to learn of our triumphs and achievements of the freedom of the mother and child and their absolute security in their own homes in this land of plenty for all and yet to spare.

I am convinced these bills are passed,
The wires are touched, this nations lasts.
The North, the South, the East, the West has grasped,
This industrious move the world attracts.
America leads in home, country and worth,
Europe will follow from cruelty, war and dearth.
Mother and child are the nation at last.
The humming of industries pervide every class.
This building goes on, and on; eternity never ends.

I have secured the right to publish the following poem by Dr. Frank L. Hanson, Bryn Mawr, Washington:

THE OPTIMIST.

Of all the beings that exist,
  I'd rather be an optimist;
Then, I could sing or dance or smile
  An' Life would be well worth th' while;
The grouch and gloom would disappear
  And jolly friends would gather near
To listen to my tales and songs
  Relating Rights instead of wrongs.

My looks and acts would indicate
  That I was in a Happy state—
The corners of my mouth would be Turned up, not down, like those you see,
For I could see the "sunny side"
  No matter how much storm or tide,
And if I happened to get "broke"
  Life would still be just a joke.

If sorrow came and rang the bell.
  I'd say: Old man—what-the-'ell
You doin' 'round here on this street?
  Skidoo, old guy, beat a retreat!
My cheerful ways and pleasant smiles
  Would radiate for miles and miles,
And thus—I'd help the world along
  For I could laugh when things went wrong.

I'd look for Mirth; I'd never go
  To church or to a gloomy show,
For thoughts and acts and scenes like these
  Make pessimists and breed dis-ease.
My Health would be "a-number-one;"
  My greatest object—lots of fun,
And prospects for Success would be Far greater than the grouchy "gee."

I'd never need to make amends;
  I'd have no foes, we'd all be friends
For I'd have brains enough to see
  That we were all one family.
If I wrote books, 'twould be "Real Dope"
  On How to Live, in Health and Hope;
I'd talk and write and spread GLAD NEWS
  Instead of old disgruntled views.

A School For Anyone Who Wants to Study

The Mental Science College, Inc., at Bryn Mawr, King County, Washington, U. S. A. Term opens annually June 28th. On and after June 28, 1915, students can enter this college at any time of the year and take any study they may select to pursue, without examination. They can take one, two or more studies. The college will be open the entire year. There are day and evening classes in the regular college work. Any person is eligible to enter this College who desires to study and learn. We have no time or room for drones or idlers. Children can be entered in the primary classes at the race age of six years. Younger children by special arrangements.

In the regular College work boys and girls can enroll at any age they are able to take the work and can graduate when they have completed their course regardless of their age. Men and women can enter at any time of the year and take the regular course of study or select their own studies.

Teachers will be provided for private lesson courses. Mothers are here to teach their daughters and sons the practical things of use to them in every-day life work. Men are here to teach only the practical things in law, business, government, medicine, doctoring, treating, healing, and all things that have been kept hid from the boy and girl, man and woman, though the special priviliged few, by the passage of class laws, to prevent the people from becoming informed upon all questions that actually enter into the very living of the people composing the millions who have been upon this earth for the untold ages that have come and gone.

Our College grounds are the choicest for health, convenience, permanence of beauty in all its surroundings, located upon Lake Washington, one of the finest bodies of fresh water in the world, soon to be connected by Government Canal with Puget Sound where the ships from all parts of the world can come and load and unload their cargo.

The College is in the midst of the native beauty of this evergreen state, where, grass, trees, plants and many vegetables, grow the year around The soil is productive, and responds to the intelligence of the thinking men and women who are here to learn how to live, how to be healthy and how to make a success in life. The snow-capped mountains in the distance surround this College of the Occident, the year around. We have the finest of pure, fresh water from springs piped into our homes and the College campus. We have now a brick and concrete paved boulevard running through the College lands, from the City of Seattle to Renton, which is connected with the Pacific Highway which, when completed, will extend from Canada on the North to Mexico on our South. We have an electric car street railroad which passes through the College grounds from Seattle to Renton every forty minutes, with numerous jitney busses and automobiles continually passing our doors. We have room here to provide for the accommodations of 5,000 students. Many more teachers are wanted here at the College and hundreds more will be required for other schools and branches that are being organized and are yet to be established and provided for. In the months of July and August each year is held a regular teachers', healers,' lecturers' and organizers' course of school training, where teachers can be drilled for this most practical course of instruction. Here is an opportunity never before offered to any sincere and reasoning woman or man to prepare themselves so as to be efficient members of a legislative body either in a State or in the Halls of Congress. A class will be opened on June 28, 1915, to study how to legislate. New conditions calls for greater efficiency. There are many men and women, who would be a success as a legislator, did they but understand how to present their thoughts in an intelligent and comprehensive language in legal form.
